Woman President? Not Yet.

No "Old Men's Diseases."

Just Bones.

Not So Surprising.

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

Albany, N. Y., July 29.

JOHN R. VOORHIS, oldest officeholder, aged ninety-five, predicts a woman President. She will come, but not in fifty years. Many women in the United States would make presidents better than any, with two exceptions, since Thomas Jefferson. But man, proud man, dressed in a little brief authority, will take a long time to get over his superiority complex.

Men of low intelligence sincerely believe that they are in some mysterious way woman's superior and such men decide presidential elections.

If a woman becomes President before 1928, it will be through promotion of a Vice-President. That might happen within a generation.

DAVID BELASCO is better. Senator Lodge must undergo a second operation. He has strength to endure it, fortunately. Too many take for granted "old men's diseases" just as "children's diseases" are taken for granted.

There is no reason why children should have the mumps, measles, scarlet fever, chicken pox, that parents ignorantly call "natural and necessary." Every such disease weakens the child. None is natural or necessary.

The old men's diseases, rheumatism, bladder and kidney trouble, hardening of the arteries are not "natural or necessary," either. Neglected teeth that cause self poisoning by absorption in the blood, auto-intoxication caused by a clogged-up condition of the intestinal tract, following unwise eating, send millions to the grave that ought to have their most useful years of life ahead.

"WE DIG OUR graves with our teeth" was well said, and, also, "half of what we eat keeps us alive, the other half kills us."

If a man past fifty, not condemned to heavy labor for a living, would understand that two or three ounces of meat a day is enough, with green vegetables in abundance "for bulk," five doctors could do the work of ten.

Our people from childhood until premature death are urged to eat more.

Ten minutes after you leave the table, which means as soon as digestion has begun, appetite ends. By getting up hungry you can do without doctors or medicines and live longer. But don't be like Napoleon, cut short your meal time. Eat more slowly, chew more thoroughly, eat less. That's the advice of Dr. Brown-Sequard, one of the wisest doctors.

THEY HAVE dug up the bones of Richard the Third of England, and a great fuss would have been made about that in the day when the "sacred majesty" of kings was taken seriously. Now those bones are just bones.

ANTIQUARIANS are hunting the grave of Attila, not far from Budapest. Interesting things would be found near the skeleton of the "Scourge of God," as he proudly called himself. He is one, by the way, that killed himself with his teeth. Celebrating his marriage to a handsome young captive girl, he ate tremendously, as Huns and Tartars did when they had the chance, and died of indigestion.

AN OLD STORY says the beautiful young captive, who had seen the murderous work of the man who boasted, "Grass never grows where my horse puts his foot," murdered him on their wedding night.

The story has not been proved, but you could believe it had you seen the temperamental girls of Hungary and the Balkans that attended Professor Popper's class in the Budapest Conservatory some years ago.

Big City-owned Gasoline Plant for Chelsea

SLAYER DIES TONIGHT UNLESS GOV. COX ACTS

17C GAS FOR 4 CITIES PLANNED

Mayor Quigley Proposes to Build 1,000,000-Gal. Tank in Chelsea for Storage

A huge gasoline storage plant owned and operated by the City of Chelsea as a source of supply for municipalities desiring to sell gasoline at cost or at small profit to motorists is the latest plan of Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley, foe of the oil barons.

At a special meeting of the Chelsea aldermen Mayor Quigley asked support of the board in furtherance of his proposal to lease storage tanks for 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline located on a wharf within the city limits.

PLAN FOR FOUR CITIES.

This new project of "Gasoline Quigley," as friends and constituents now call Chelsea's Mayor, is inspired by the tremendous success of the city's gasoline filling stations which are dispensing the motor fuel at seventeen cents a gallon with a free quart of motor oil with every gallon.

Thousands of motorists have patronized the Quigley stations at the city yard on Fourth street and at two other filling places recently opened.

That the cities of Revere, Malden, Melrose and possibly Cambridge will draw supplies from the proposed municipal stations is indicated if the Chelsea storage wharf project is adopted.

MAY TRY COAL NEXT.

In a statement today, Mayor Quigley reminded coal and wood dealers and fuel oil companies that the success of the city's gasoline station should serve as a warning to them to keep oil fuel prices down.

The public has demonstrated its approval of municipal-controlled gasoline stations, where motor fuel may be obtained from 4 to 5 cents the gallon cheaper than oil stations supplied by the big oil corporations.

"A word to the coal dealers, wood dealers and others engaged in supplying the residents of Chelsea with household fuel should suffice.

"If I find that the people are be-

Britain May Frame Law to Stop Rum Bound for U. S.

London, July 29.—The possibility of taking measures to put a stop to sending from the United Kingdom liquor which ultimately reaches the United States was still under consideration, Arthur Ponsonby, under secretary for foreign affairs, told a questioner in the House of Commons today.

The difficulty was, he said, to frame measures which would not hurt legitimate trade.

IMBRIE SLAYERS ALL ARRESTED, SAYS PERSIA

London, July 29 (I.N.S.).—Practically all persons implicated in the killing of Robert Whitney Imbrie, American vice consul at Teheran, have been arrested, the Persian legation announced today. The legation, in an informal statement called forth by Washington's warning note to Persia, said that the police did not take part in the attack, but, on the contrary, sustained casualties in attempting to rescue the American. Only policeman was killed and several wounded.

The statement pointed out that, during the period of fighting at Teheran, police were ordered to do nothing which would aggravate the feeling. "Hence orders," it was said, led the police to refrain from firing upon the mobs.

DUNLAP, DARTMOUTH MAN, DIES OF WRECK INJURY

Chicago, July 29—John H. Dunlap of New York, secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers, died today of injuries sustained in a railroad wreck at Buda, Ill. His death was the ninth fatality. He was a graduate of Dartmouth College.

FIGHTS TO DEPORT FIRPO

Canon Shefe of Brooklyn, a Leader in Move, Will Take Case to Coolidge, He Says

New York, July 29.—Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight pugilist, "will be deported from this country on a wave of moral indignation," it was predicted today by Bernard Saudler, attorney for Canon William Shefe Chase of Brooklyn.

Canon Chase is a leader in the fight to have Firpo deported.

Firpo and Ramon Lourdes, who was on the same ship with him from Buenos Aires, were detained by the authorities at Ellis Island. Firpo was allowed to enter the United States and Miss Lourdes was diverted to Havana.

"We will not hesitate to take this case before the President of the United States," Saudler said, in threatening to see that the official head of the immigration chief, Henry H. Curran, "will drop in the basket."

"Why is it," Saudler asked, "that no one was allowed to see this woman when she was detained at Ellis Island? Why was it that the ship on which she sailed was sent from her pier an hour ahead of time?"

He charged there was a "sinister and insidious reason for admitting Firpo."

"The prize fight trust," he declared, "will collect nearly $500,000 for Firpo's services here."

Firpo is scheduled to fight Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, in Jersey City in September.

FINAL PLEA ON NEW EVIDENCE

Death Chair Tested as Counsel for Vandenhecke Ask Stay of Execution

Counsel for Cyrille J. Vandenhecke waited upon Governor Cox today and asked that his execution be halted and his sentence commuted.

Vandenhecke is to be executed during the night, unless Governor Cox grants a reprieve. The death chair has been tested, the executioner from New York is here, and legal witnesses have been summoned.

John P. Kane of Lawrence, senior counsel for the condemned man, was closeted with the Governor for three-quarters of an hour.

Midway in the conference he was joined by George Pattie, junior counsel. The attorneys were earnest and vehement in their representations.

On his way out Mr. Kane was asked how the situation looked.

WORKING ON NEW EVIDENCE

"We asked for a reprieve and commutation of sentence to life imprisonment," he said.

"We have new evidence bearing on the killing of Callan Schurman which we believe will clear our client. Just now it is not in perfect order.

"If Vansenhecke is executed this new evidence will be rounded into perfection too late to do him any good. We ask that his life be spared so that a great wrong may not be done by the Commonwealth."

Mr. Kane would not venture an opinion as to the probable action of the Governor.

Unless Governor Cox interferes,

MRS. FLEISCHMANN WINS HER DIVORCE IN PARIS

International News Reel Photo
Mrs. Fleischmann

Paris, July 29.—The application of Mrs. Julius Fleischmann, wife of the American yeast king, for divorce was granted today on the grounds of incompatibility.

The name of Mrs. Fleischmann became linked recently with that of Jay O'Brien, the polo player, but Dudley Field Malone, counsel for the yeast manufacturer, denied that Mrs. Fleischmann contemplated marrying O'Brien.

Malone also denied Fleischmann intended giving his wife a bequest of $5,000,000.

$8,000,000 MORE FOR CARNEGIE INSTITUTE

New York, July 29.—The Carnegie Corporation custodian of the bulk of the fortune left by Andrew Carnegie, today paid to Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh, an $8,000,000 addition to the endowment for educational work of the Institute. It makes the total amount given to the Institute by Mr. Carnegie $38,000,000.

There is still a further gift of $8,000,000 to be paid during the next twenty years on condition that the trustees of the Carnegie Institute raise $4,000,000 from other sources.

Steel Wages Reduced

Sydney, N. S., July 29.—A wage reduction of from 10 to 25 per cent. was announced today by the British Empire Steel Corporation. The cut affects all employes, including President Roy M. Wolvine.

GRILL SON ON SLAYING OF MOTHER

Taunton, July 29.—Leslie Williams, twenty-one-year-old son of Mrs. Claire W. Williams, who was killed at her inn at East Mansfield early today, was brought to Taunton by State police this afternoon and questioned for more than an hour.

His sister Lillian, twenty-nine years old, also was brought here for examination.

While the police would not discuss the development fully, they admitted the boy was subjected to a grilling because of the finding of his revolver, with two chambers empty, on the edge of Slick Pond, fifteen yards from the rear of the house in which the murder was committed.

Young Williams told the police that one of eight gunmen who visited the inn and tried to extort money killed his mother.

The boy said he ran to a rear room and got the revolver and when he returned it was taken from him by one of the gunmen and a single shot fired from it. The bullet, he said, struck his mother and killed her.

FIND REVOLVER.

The revolver, he told the police, was thrown into a field by the bandits who had taken it from him.

Town Manager Plattner of Mansfield, who also is chief of police, found the weapon, but it was not in the spot indicated in young Williams' story.

Arrests were promised this afternoon. Several young women who

EXPLORER'S SHIP CRUSHED AT GREENLAND

Washington, July 29 (U. S. P.).—Ice conditions in East Greenland are severe, according to a radio dispatch received from the Stefansky Sand expedition ship Greenland, the caravan of which is the explorer, Elias Middleton. The stern and steering gear of the ship is reported to have been crushed in the ice at the entrance to Scoresby Sound. A relief ship is to be sent to help the Greenland.

FIGHT HUB-WORCESTER BUS LINE

Opposition to the petition of the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company, for a motor bus line between Boston and oWrcester, to supplement its through trolley service between the two cities, developed at the hearing before the Department of Public Utilids today. Representatives of the Boston & Albany and the Boston & Maine roads, as well as representatives of the city of Marlboro, opposed the petition as being unfair to those roads. Other remonstrants argued that traffic is now too heavy over Pie State highways.

BOY SLAYERS SMILE AT "CONFESSIONS"

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, who pleaded guilty to the kidnaping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks, today heard read in open court first their denials and then their confessions of the crime.

Benjamin Bachrach, one of the attorneys for the boys, helped get into the record this final stage of the State's presentation of evidence, by relieving Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, of the task of reading the prosecution's transcript of the boys' admissions.

The boys listened with little change of expression until Mr. Bachrach reached a passage in which Leopold quoted a profane exclamation made to his brother when he learned that his spectacles had been found near the culvert in which he and Loeb had hidden the body of the Francks boy.

SMILE AT CONFESSIONS.

When this came out in Mr. Bachrach's clear voice both defendants grinned.

They smiled again when the account reached a colloquy between Leopold and Mr. Crowe, in which the latter quizzed the student on the distinction between grammar and rhetoric.

At one point in the hearing Leopold's ideas of religion were worked into the record.

"There is no God," he was quoted as saying. "I do not believe in a future life. When I die, I die all over. Of course, that is only an

AMERICAN MISSIONARY SLAIN BY RUFFIANS

New York, July 29.—Details of the killing of the Rev. George Douglas Byers, in charge of evangelistic work at the Presbyterian Mission at Kachek, Island of Hainan, on June 24, were received today by the Board of Foreign Missions.

The information said the Rev. Mr. Byers and his wife and children were alone in the station when four ruffians entered the compound to carry him away. He refused to go and was shot dead. The other members of his family were uninjured.

opinion and it can be demonstrated only by dying."

Leopold was busy talking to Mr. Darrow when this occurred and apparently did not hear it.

Other points that amused the defendants included Leopold's "hope" that he was an expert automobile driver and his plight as to whether or was his favorite beverage.

Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, sat with the boys and talked with them from time to time.

Mr. Crowe said that Leopold had said that he was acquainted with the culvert in which the body of Bobby Franks was found. He said he knew there was a drain there but said he did not notice it particularly" when at one spot on "level ground" there.

LEOPOLD CARRIED PISTOL.

Mr. Hallowell read from the statement Leopold's opinion that anyone unfamiliar with the place could not find it in the dark.

Leopold described the glasses and case as the same as those found in the room of Nathan Leopold, Jr., the owner of the glasses found near Bobby Franks after he failed to come home for dinner was the tennis court at the home of Richard Loeb, where Bobby and Richard frequently played together.

LOEB CAUGHT A PRETTY YOUNG GIRL ARTIST SKETCHING HIM AND FUNNED, SMILED AND POSED.

Leopold was quoted as saying he had Loeb nicknames, "Higher" from the family and "Flea" from the boys at the preparatory school he attended. He said he probably was called "Flea" because of his size and interest in insects.

Leopold was quoted as denying ever having used narcotics.

He was also quoted as saying he "doubted" that gin was his favorite. He said Loeb was a close friend and that they had a habit of dining together as frequently as three times a week.

The reading brought out Leopold's agreement with Mr. Crowe that he had been treated with every consideration by the prosecutor and had "no complaint to make whatever."

The record showed that Milton Smith, assistant State's attorney, had rehearsed Leopold on the "joy ride" part of the alibi. Leopold was quoted as saying that he had consumed a pint of gin and Loeb half as much whiskey on this pretended trip.

"Loeb couldn't go home to dinner on account of his breath," was Leopold's version of the reason for their absence from home the evening of May 21. He also accounted for the supposed hour of their return by saying Loeb needed time to "sober up."

John Savarese, an assistant State's attorney, took up the reading after Mr. Hallowell had read steadily for an hour.

SMILES AT GIRL ARTIST

Leopold was quoted as saying that one of the places searched for Bobby Franks after he failed to come home for dinner was the tennis court at the home of Richard Loeb, where Bobby and Richard frequently played together.

LOEB CAUGHT A PRETTY YOUNG GIRL ARTIST SKETCHING HIM AND FUNNED, SMILED AND POSED.

Leopold was quoted as saying he had Loeb nicknames, "Higher" from the family and "Flea" from the boys at the preparatory school he attended. He said he probably was called "Flea" because of his size and interest in insects.

Leopold was quoted as denying ever having used narcotics.

He was also quoted as saying he and Loeb had several small disputes one of them resulting from plans for a New Year's Eve party. He said, according to the stenographer's record, that "Loeb's girl's mother did not want her to go out with so small a party, particularly on New Year's Eve."

Leopold said he wrote a letter to Loeb and the reader's voice was dropped as it was not into the record. The boys exchanged smiling confidences at this point.

Boston Alienist Calls Leopold "Monomaniac"

(Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service.)

Chicago, July 29.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., is a crazy genius, thoroughly unbalanced, a paranoiac of monomaniac type, and socially dangerous, according to an exhaustive report made by William Healy, Boston alienist, at the request of Leopold counsel and relatives.

Dr. Healy diagnoses the young college student as the victim of a progressive mental disorder, likely to become much worse, and traces his deterioration from the time he was "a sweet and lovable little child" until the present, when he discusses calmly his chance of hanging for the murder of little Robert Franks.

In others he rated only as high as a twelve-year-old child.

The problem to be solved in the examination, Dr. Healy says in his report, is the mental status and mental life of Leopold in relation to the Franks case. The data was obtained by preliminary studies of Drs. Bowman and Hulbert and personal research.

The report says:

"Physical status—as given in detail in other reports, there are certain signs of neurotic inhibition and there is some show of pathology of endocrine system and sympathetic nervous system.

"In addition I note variable signs of extreme nervous tension in exaggerated use of facial muscles and nervous gestures, blushing or pallor of face, etc.

"Mental status—general intelligence. The Bowman-Hulbert report states that Leopold's intelligence is obviously high. By tests I find it to be remarkably so.

"His memory powers were partially tested and gave some rather interesting results. His immediate rote memory, in some respects, is not at all good, a quite unexpected result.

"Concerning what might be called the moral and social traits, we find him:

"Most extremely and pathologically self-centered.

"Astonishingly lacking in feelings or conceptions of gratitude and obligation.

"Truthful in general and frank when he pleases.

"Not resistance at all about his ideas now or formerly—indeed rather proud of putting them forth.

"Rebellious against obligations and social conformities to any deeper standards, although in certain ways rather punctilious; for instance, in keeping appointments or finishing mental tasks. Thus one might say he is conscientious in some spheres.

"Absolutely lacking in most loyalties, but strongly demanding loyalty from others.

"On account of the steady mental deterioration going on with Leopold since he was a boy of 10 or 12, to the extent of his destroying for himself any notions of God, conscience, sympathy, the rightfulness of law and order, and responsibility and loyalty of any kind;

"On account of all these, I see no other conclusion possible but that Leopold is a thoroughly unbalanced individual in his mental life really mentally diseased, or the paranoiac or monomaniac type, which has produced so many criminals."

MEDFORD AUTOIST WHO HIT BOY DENIES GUILT

John J. Amaral, twenty-nine years of age, of No. 16 Edward street, Medford, was arraigned in Somerville district court today, charged with operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public and operating an automobile without a certificate of registration. He pleaded not guilty to the former charge and guilty to the latter. Both cases were continued until August 5 for trial and the latter until the same day for sentence.

Amaral was arrested by Patrolmen Dwyer and Fulton after his machine had struck four and a half old Ernest L. Neville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Neville of No. 4 Florence terrace, Somerville, on Jacques street. The child is in a serious condition.

HOW WOMAN WAS SLAIN AT INN

Jim at East Mansfield shooting, in diagram, how gang of bandits shot Mrs. Clare W. Williams after wrestling revolver from her son, Leslie, in battle that followed the threats of eight men to expose her career unless they were paid money. This is the story as told by the son. The police gave him a grilling of an hour on certain features of his story.

QUESTION SON OF WOMAN INN VICTIM

were at the inn were questioned, on the chance that they might be able to recognize one or more of the eight gunmen supposed to have been implicated in the murder.

The slaying of Mrs. Williams marked the tragic end of a tragic life. She herself had served a term in prison for conducting a "baby farm" in Boston. The son, Leslie, her protege and also the cause of her death, is wanted by the police of Black Bay station for the theft of an automobile. An other son, Ray Williams, served a term in Concord for highway robbery.

As yet, the police have unravelled little of the mystery surrounding the shooting.

Mrs. Williams, who formerly conducted a rooming house in Columbus avenue, Boston, opened the roadhouse a few weeks ago. It was a resort frequented by men and women who make up the so-called "night life" of Boston. A number of girls lived at the inn. Entertainment was offered at all hours of the night and often until the gray of dawn streaked the skies of the East.

According to the police version, the eight young men, in several automobiles, drove up to the roadhouse, early today. They entered the motor dining room. Girls were there, everyone was apparently having a splendid time.

One of the youths sought out Mrs. Williams. It is said he demanded $100 as the price of "silence" on the part of himself and his friends. He threatened the woman, telling her he would inform the authorities of the nature of the roadhouse she was running.

Mrs. Williams resented the attempt at blackmail. The argument became heated and finally her son ran to his mother's side. As the eight gangsters became menacing in their attitude, the son ran to his room, secured a revolver and again returned to the side of his mother.

There was a concerted rush on the part of the gangsters and the weapon was taken from young Williams' hand. The boy says he was kicked and beaten when there was a muffled shot and Mrs. Williams fell to the floor. The gangsters and the other spectators who were gathered about the end of the dining room fled.

The woman died within a few minutes, clasped in the arms of her son, who says he had defended his mother.

The authorities are convinced they know the identity of the gang responsible for the murder of Mrs. Williams, and the round-up of the gang is expected within a few hours.

Mrs. Williams, the victim of the murder gang, was once characterized by Judge Sullivan in Municipal Court as a "murderess at heart." This was on the occasion of the judge sentencing her to the house of correction for fourteen months for conducting a "baby farm" at No. 658 Tremont street.

Eighteen infants were discovered in the rooming house, all suffering from malnutrition and of this number several died, despite the efforts of the authorities to restore them to health.

Vandenhecke will die a few minutes after midnight tonight.

Everything is in readiness at the prison for the execution. The electrician who will throw the switch has arrived from New York, and this afternoon adjusted the chair and tonight will test the death machine.

Vandenhecke enjoyed the best sleep last night since he has been confined in the death house. He retired soon after 9 o'clock and slept soundly until after 6 o'clock this morning. At 7:30 o'clock he enjoyed a breakfast of steak, boiled eggs, toast and coffee.

Rev. Michael J. Murphy and Rev. James M. Kelly, O. S. A., of Lowell, spent the morning with him in prayer. Vandenhecke, when not engaged with his spiritual advisers, is reading a book, "Life After Death," written by Bishop Vaughn, which was given him by Father Kelly.

WITNESSES SUMMONED.

Witnesses have been notified to be on hand this evening, unless the execution is postponed, at the orders of the Governor.

Father Kelley and Father Murphy accompanied to the death house at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will spend the evening with the condemned man.

Both priests will accompany Vandenhecke to the chair, if the sentence of the court is carried out early tomorrow morning.

In addition to the priests, there will be the three legal witnesses, Dr. Joseph I. McLaughlin, the prison physician; Dr. George R. McGrath, medical examiner of Suffolk County, Dr. Frank P. William, surgeon general of the Massachusetts National Guard, also Sheriff Arthur Wells of Essex County and a representative of the press.

Warden William Hendry will give the signal to the executioner to turn on the current that will send the man into eternity. Deputy Warden James Hogsett will escort the prisoner from the death cell, a distance of about ten steps to the chair.

Leopold Wants to Star in Case as Cross-Examiner

Chicago, July 29.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., on trial for the killing of Bobby Franks, wants to take an active instead of passive part in his own court trial.

He requested his attorneys today to allow him to cross-examine two witnesses who have appeared for the State against him, both of whom, he asserted, have sworn falsely and put words into his mouth that he never uttered.

His lawyers declined to grant this request.

ing mulcted by dealers in the necessaries of life. I will buy and sell coal, wood and other Winter fuel and supplies and sell at cost.

"The people of Chelsea have had enough of price-gouging. We won't stand for profiteering."

As a result of Quigley's "cut gas" two Chelsea dealers are today selling at 17 cents a gallon, the price Mayor Quigley decided was "fair" when he opened the municipal gas-selling stations several days ago.

The dealers who have capitulated are William Dundby, who operates the Spencer filling station on Spencer avenue and the Kravatz Garage on Spruce street.

Heretofore the dealers have held a solid front in resisting the efforts of the Mayor to force down the price of gasoline.

It is generally predicted that the action of the two dealers will be followed by others within the next 24 hours.

DEDHAM SCHOOL TEACHER FIGURES IN SECRET ROMANCE

FRIENDS FIND OUT PLANS

Wedding Intentions Published In Providence Reveal Love Match on Tennis Courts

A romance of the Dedham and Dorchester tennis courts came to light today in spite of the earnest efforts of the two interested parties to keep it secret.

Miss Signe H. Anderson, a teacher in Dedham High School, and George J. Crowdas, an electrical engineer, are the principals.

To avoid the congratulations and the well-meant badinage of friends, they went to Providence to make application for their marriage license.

But the best laid plans of man and maid go oft astray. A Providence paper published their marriage intentions. Friends made inquiries and the secret romance was secret no more.

They met on the tennis courts of mutual friends, according to acquaintances. Both are excellent players. They have participated in many amateur matches together.

Although Miss Anderson is living at the Franklin Square House, her permanent address is No. 34 Weight road, Roslindale, where she lives with Mrs. John Johnson, a relative.

"I expected they would be married some time, but not quite yet," said Mrs. Johnson, when she was shown the newspaper clipping telling of their intention to marry.

"One evening last week they visited me and never said a word about getting married in the immediate future."

Miss Anderson is a graduate of the Salem Normal School. While she was there she acquired the proficiency in tennis which later was to play an important part in her romance.

During the Summer she is employed as a stenographer in a Boston business house. She is twenty-four years old.

Mr. Crowdas lives at No. 75 Harvard street, Dorchester, with his mother. He is employed by a Cambridge electrical firm. He is twenty-seven.

LOST HER HEART WHEN PLAYING TENNIS

MISS SIGNE H ANDERSON

Miss Anderson, a teacher in the Dedham High School, was wooed and won on the tennis courts by George J. Crowdas of Dorchester. They took out marriage intentions in Providence, intending to keep their romance secret. But the intentions were published and read by their friends.

THORNTON D. APPOLONIO, ILL 25 YEARS, IS DEAD

Thornton D. Appolonio, who stuck to his post as secretary of the Boston School Committee for more than twenty-five years, in spite of failing health, died in Brookline at the age of sixty. The life of Mr. Appolonio has been interwoven with the life and growth of the Boston school system.

T. D. Appolonio.

He was the author of an educational book called "Boston Public Schools, Past and Present."

OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY OF KING HUMBERT'S DEATH

Rome, July 28.—The twenty-fourth anniversary of the death of King Humbert was solemnly celebrated throughout Italy today, with the flags on public buildings flying at half-mast. King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Mother Margherita attended mass in the Pantheon together with a large assemblage of prominent persons. Large crowds outside the Pantheon demonstrated their sympathy as the King and Queen mother departed.

During the afternoon a large throng of loyal subjects passed in procession to the Pantheon to add their wreaths to the many deposited during the morning after the mass.

BRAZIL'S EXECUTIVES ACT FOR RESTORATION

Buenos Aires, July 28 (A.P.).—While the remnants of the military forces which revolted at Sao Paulo, July 5 were being pursued today into the interior of Brazil by federal troops, Governor Da Campos, once more installed in his state capital, was taking account of the damage it suffered from the three weeks bombardment, fire and pillage and as Rio Janeiro, President Bernardes was faced with the problem of effecting a solid restoration of the nation's disturbed unity.

"It is up to us to reorganize Brazil so it will be able to repress once for all the possibilities of such rebellions," President Bernardes declared.

8 QUINCY CHILDREN SEEK MISSING FATHER

Eight Quincy kiddies want their daddy.

He is Fred Gerard, 42 years of age, of Quincy, and is a contracting carpenter. Mrs. Gerard has asked the Newton police to help find him. He disappeared three days ago after completing a job in West Newton. Upon completion of the work he obtained several hundreds of dollars.

WARNS AGAINST OPEN-AIR SODA FOUNTAINS

Do not purchase tonic in unlabelled bottles!

This warning was issued today by the city health department, which on several occasions has seized unlabelled tonic and dumped it as unfit for food.

The warning was issued by Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, health commissioner as a part of his drive to rid Boston of unsanitary soda fountains and sidewalk and open window soft drink establishments.

He urges patrons of these side walk stands to be particular when ordering their tonics and to examine the bottles to see if they are labelled properly.

The law requires that the name and address of the manufacturer, the grade or quality and name of the article, and net weight be on the bottle.

Dr. Patrick H. Mullowney, Deputy Health Commissioner, in charge of the food division of the Health Department, has discovered that many sidewalk and window stands sell the lowest grade of tonic without labels.

Numerous cases are on record where food inspectors have seized unlabelled tonic, and, after a careful analysis dumped it into the sewer.

Dr. Mahoney advises patrons of soda fountains that do not carry labelled tonics to trade elsewhere. He says the proprietors will then put in a stock of labelled tonic that is fit to drink.

Dr. Mahoney also cautions about the straws served with soda and tonics. Many of these are kept in unsanitary containers.

As only a few of these sidewalk stands and doorway soda fountains are equipped with running hot water, patrons are warned to refuse service in glasses and told they should insist on paper cups.

Health department officials have found that the principal offenders of the pure tonic laws are out-of-town bottlers.

ARRESTED 9 YEARS AFTER WOMAN DIES

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 29 (I.N.S.).—W. G. Bennett and his wife of Rome, Ga., today are arrested in connection with the finding of an acid-eaten skeleton in the old Bennett home here.

The skeleton, officers declared, is that of Miss Augusta Hoffman, Bennett's aunt, who was living with him at the time of her mysterious disappearance nine years ago.

AUTO DEALER KILLS SELF BY ACCIDENT

North Scituate, July 29.—Ernest C. Ruiter, thirty-three years old, and proprietor of the Ruiter Motor Sales, Inc., of Cohasset, accidentally shot and killed himself at his home, Bloss son and High streets, here.

Mr. Ruiter was proprietor of one of the largest motor business on the South Shore at Cohasset and leaves a wife and three children, Pauline, Charlotte and Hazel.

BANDITS SERVE ICE CREAM TO VICTIMS

Four versatile young bandits staged a spectacular holdup at the drug store of D. J. Kelley at Murray Hill road and the boulevard, Malden early today, and after serving one patron with ice cream, herded the customers of the store in the back room and escaped with $254.

The bandits, pursued, stopped their car on the Fellsway at Fulton street and opened fire with revolvers on their pursuers, finally escaping in the direction of Stoneham.

Two of the bandits in blue suits and wearing masks entered the drug store. Another stood watch outside the door while the fourth sat at the wheel of an automobile, kept ready with engine running, for his companions.

Kelley, the owner of the drug store, was in the prescription department at the rear of the store, changing his shoes preparatory to going home when two masked youths entered the store.

"Stick 'em up" ordered one of the youths and Kelly raised from a stooping position to look into the muzzles of two revolvers. Kelley lost no time in "sticking 'em up."

The door of a safe stood open in the rear of the store. From the safe one of the bandits gathered $254 in cash which he carefully deposited about his person.

There was another safe in the front of the store.

"Open boy, just open that boiler and get a move on," one of the bandits directed.

Kelley insisted that he did not know the combination of the safe, which contained $116.

While the bandits were debating what should be done about the safe in the front of the store, two belated customers entered the front. They were Lawrence Grady of No. 59 Lambert street, Medford and Fred Kelley, also of Medford.

The younger of the two bandits in a flash stepped out of his character as gunman and became a genial drug clerk. Snatching the mask from his face he entered the front of the store.

"What will you boys have?" he sang out in a tone that was intended to make the patrons of the store feel entirely at ease.

"Ice cream," spoke up Kelley.

He snatched a revolver from his pocket.

"Get back there in the rear" he ordered.

The two startled customers thought at first it was a joke. There was a certain air of business about the revolver, however, and hastened their steps to the rear of the store.

The two bandits held a hurried debate. They both determined to go through the clothing of the two customers when their attention was again directed to the front of the store.

It was Ralph DeCecca of No. 51 Upham street, Melrose, who left a party of three in his automobile outside the drug store while he entered to purchase some ice cream.

The third customer was too much for the young bandits. They finally decided to call it a day and leave.

Out on the street they tumbled pell-mell into their machine and with their confederates were away.

N. ENGLAND TO LOSE MILLIONS BY DROUTH

Dryest Summer in 50 Years Taking a Heavy Toll From Farmers

Millions of dollars will be lost on New England farms this season as a result of the dryest Summer in fifty years.

Reports from Western Massachusetts and Connecticut, particularly hard hit, say the loss to the tobacco crop alone will reach from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 unless rain falls within a few days.

Peaches have also been hard hit, the crop having already been cut 50 per cent, on account of dry weather. Corn is reported 50 per cent. below average yield in the same districts.

The rainfall in Connecticut and Western Massachusetts has been lighter this month than in any previous July for 51 years. Parched fields abound throughout those sections with an appalling water famine. Farmers have been praying for rain, the eight weeks of scorching sunshine and cloudless skies having ruined havoc generally.

OTHER SECTIONS HIT.

Other sections of New England report heavy losses to fruits and vegetables on account of the continued drought. All sorts of fruits will be of inferior quality, according to experts.

Potatoes are slowly being ruined in Connecticut, according to reports from Hartford.

In discussing the drought and impending losses, President Joseph W. Alsop of Connecticut Valley Tobacco Growers' Association, which holds acres of growing tobacco valued, under normal conditions at $3,000,000, said:

"Broad and Havana seed tobacco have reached the stage where the plants must have large quantities of water or they will go to seed. A large portion of the crop will be seriously damaged, even if substantial quantities of rain fall soon. Eighty per cent. of the crop will be ruined if the drought continues another week.

NOT FOR 53 YEARS.

"The rainfall in the tobacco belt during July has been three-eighths of an inch and hot winds have helped parch the ground. It is fifty-three years since similar conditions prevailed. The Havana crop will be much smaller than normal this season, as the plants cannot overcome the handicap."

New York experts heavy sales of tobacco stored in packing houses because of the reports from Connecticut and Western Massachusetts.

Truck farmers and dairymen in Hampden County say they will suffer from the prolonged drought. Pastures in that county are generally burnt up, giving such little sustenance to herds that it is estimated 1,000 animals will be sold for meat unless heavy rain comes soon.

The shortage of hay will also have its effect upon the sale of cows, as many dairymen will cut their herds rather than pay high prices to feed the animals through the Winter.

WOMAN CONFESSES SHE POISONED 5; 4 DEAD

Austin, Tex., July 28.—Mrs. Anna Hauptriff, held at San Marcos in connection with the death of her father-in-law and the illness of her husband, William Hauptriff, of Goforth, has signed a confession admitting poisoning them, according to District Attorney Fred Blundell. The confession, Blundell declared, was signed after Mrs. Hauptriff was confronted with a tin can and a glass jar containing alleged poison and taken from Hauptriff's home.

CONFER TO STOP RUM FLOW OVER CANADA LINE

Ottawa, July 29 (I.N.S.).—New regulations to govern liquor exports to astoin and check the flood of liquor now entering the United States through the Canadian border were predicted here today following a conference of customs and excise department officials. It was said more Canadian liquor is sold here than ever was crossing into the United States.

MAINE MAN LEAPS TO DEATH IN SEA

Norfolk, Va., July 29.—Herbert L. Ford, aged sixty-two, engineer on the schooner Perry Setzer, ended his life by jumping overboard at sea July 26, Captain J. R. Brown, of that schooner, reported today after the ship had docked here. Ford, whose home was in Calais, Maine, followed the sea for fifty years. The schooner was enroute here from Fall River.

Body Found on Beach

The body of an unidentified man believed to have met his death by drowning, was found on the sands near the Point of Pines, Revere, by Thomas Mahoney of No. 28 Woodworth avenue, Revere, who was walking along the beach. The body was taken in charge by the medical examiner for the determination of the cause of death and for identification.

Too Much for Judge

MISS ALASKA

She is Mrs. Heimar Liederman. An Atlantic City censor called her to count for wearing this bathing suit. The judge said: "Not guilty," but refused the beauty's offer to don the suit in court.

COURT SHUTS EYES; FREES BATHING GIRL

Atlantic City, July 29.—The bathing suit that made them sit up in Sitka was vindicated in Atlantic City when Mrs. Heimar Liederman, the Miss Alaska of the 1927 bathing beauty contest in the shore resort, was discharged in court.

Dismissal of the charge made against her by a beach censor came when she requested and was denied permission to don her prize winning bathing suit in court to prove it conformed to all the city ordinances.

Michael Bird, chief censor, admitted that Thomas Taggart, his assistant, who made the charge, had been overzealous.

Earl Liederman, New York physical culturist, who acted as his wife's attorney, told the court Taggart had threatened him with a revolver when he protested at the arrest.

DEVENS ARTILLERYMEN START FOREST FIRE

Camp Devens, July 28.—When the 102d F. A., 26th division, M. N. G., comprising batteries from Salem, Lawrence, Beverly and Lynn, went on the range for the third time in their period of training here, their fast rifle-firing started a forest fire. Twenty-five men were rushed into the woods and after a brisk but short campaign with brooms, sticks and other implements brought the blaze under control, after which firing was resumed.

The small conflagration failed to make much headway because the soldiers were armed with fire-fighting equipment and it was no surprise attack when the fire started. On the other two occasions, firing also had been suspended when fire resulted from the target work.

THIEVES STRIP AUTOS IN BRIGHTON DISTRICT

In Brighton and Allston, where there is a shortage of garages and most owners leave their cars in the open, auto accessory thieves are becoming a serious problem, Captain Bradley C. Mason of the Brighton police said today. He warned auto owners to be on the watch. Frequently owners who leave their machines in back yards awake to find them stripped of tires and rifled of tools.

CAVANAUGH DECLINES TO RUN FOR AUDITOR

The democratic leaders of Massachusetts are still seeking a candidate for the office of State auditor to oppose Alonzo B. Cook, Republican candidate for re-election.

One hope of the Democratic leaders went glimmering when Major Frank W. Cavanaugh, coach of the Boston College football team, refused flatly to carry the banner.

WANDERLUST TO BE TESTED AT PSYCHOPATHIC

Twombly Hits Open Road for Seventh and Last Time; Judge Lectures Him

When Walter A. Twombly of No. 74 Bird street, Roxbury, gets tired of hearing the wife repeat what the neighbors said and listening to the baby cry, he goes away for a little rest.

He calls it wanderlust, but in Roxbury Court today Judge Hayden called it desertion and gave Walter a severe talking to.

Then he ordered him held in $1000 until August 9, and committed to the Psychopathic Hospital for observation.

"Anybody who hears the call of the open road as clearly as you when he ought to be listening to the little woman's advice needs to be looked over," Judge Hayden told the defendant.

Twombly's last flitting was on Friday night. Last night he returned to Boston. Whether he would have returned to his home the police don't know, for they met him at the South Station.

"Seven times he has deserted me," Mrs. Twombly told the court. "For periods ranging from three weeks to five months.

"Usually he left me and our baby without funds. Once he ran away from us after taking us to Michigan.

"When he came back he always said he had gotten tired of us, and wanted a little vacation.

"Married men can't take vacations in that manner in this state," said Judge Hayden, before ordering the runaway husband committed.

She Isn't Afraid of Crooks and She's a Sprinter, Too

Most women are afraid of burglars and thieves. Mrs. Mathilda Patterson of No. 256 Lexington street, East Boston isn't.

She proved this by chasing three young men on Bremen street, East Boston. Her fleetness and screams resulted in the arrest of the trio. They were intercepted by Patrolman Flinn and gave the names of Thomas L. Leary, 26, of No. 204 Chelsea street, East Boston; Leo V. Mooney, 25, of No. 44 Underhill street, Winthrop, and Cornelius J. Keating, 26, of No. 40 Princeton street, East Boston.

Mrs. Peterson says they tried to steal her handbag.

SLAIN MAN BELIEVED RUM ROW VICTIM

New York, July 29.—The police of Southampton are investigating a murder mystery that came from the sea. The body of a man, devoid of any means of identification was found here on the beach. A deep wound on the back of the head appeared to have been made by some weapon. Theory was advanced that the man may have been a bootlegger killed in a fight along rum row.

SOUTH BOSTON PLANT BURNS; LOSS IS $10,000

The one-story plant of the Cole-man Disposal Company at No. 399 Southampton street, South Boston, was destroyed by fire early today, with a loss of $10,000. The plant was used for baling and packing of paper and rags, and contained a large amount of junk in addition to considerable machinery.

PROHIBITION NOT 1924 ISSUE, SAYS LA FOLLETTE

Washington, July 29 (I.N.S.).—The new Progressive party does not regard prohibition as an issue in this year's presidential campaign, it was announced today at the headquarters of Senator LaFollette.

The statement was made on behalf of the Progressive candidate in reply to the charge of the Anti-Saloon League that LaFollette is the "only wet" in the race for the White House.

The issues are "all economic," LaFollette's managers explained.

SUICIDE AFTER AN AUTO RIDE WITH GIRL

Kingston Man Puts Car Into Garage, Then Shoots Self in View of Two Persons

Kingston, July 29.—Tragedy marked the end of an automobile ride which the police of Kingston are investigating today.

Guy Antenelli of 6 S? Main street was the victim. The police report is that he committed suicide.

Ete. Michaeal Supercoul and Miss Molly Martin were on the ride. They live only a few houses away, and both went into Antonetti's garage with him early today to help him put up his car.

When he had the lights turned off and the ignition locked he drew an automatic from his pocket and shot himself in the head, it is alleged. He died a few hours afterward in Jordan Hospital.

U. S. FLIERS ARE GIVEN WORD TO HOP OFF

Arrival of Cruiser Richmond at Rosyth, Scotland, Completes Ship Cordon

Rosyth, Scotland, July 29 (Universal Cable).—The United States Cruiser Richmond arrived here following which Admiral Magruder announced that the three American round-the-world planes will leave Hull tomorrow at 5 a. m., arriving at Kirkwall a few hours later.

They will hop off for Iceland Thursday and arrive at Reykjavik on Friday, making one stop in Icelandic waters. American destroyers will be stationed along the entire route.

Arrange Boston Program of Greetings to Fliers

Captain Louis H. Knight, in charge of Army aviation in the New England area, announced the official program for the reception here, about August 10 of the American Army round-the-world fliers.

The fliers will be met at the Airport by Major-General A. W. Brewster, commanding general of the New England area, and his staff, by State and municipal officials, by press, newspaper editors and their guests and the general public.

Realizing that the world fliers will be tired after their long flight, only one other event has been planned for that day. This will be an informal dinner at the Copley Plaza Hotel at 8 p. m. given by the combined service clubs of New England.

The second day the fliers will pay an official call on Major-General Brewster at Army headquarters at 11 o'clock.

At noon they will be received outside the entrance at City Hall by the Mayor and City Council, with details from the Army and Navy, the Grand Army of the Republic, United Spanish War Veterans, American Legion and the Mayor's reception committee. Presentation of keys to the city will conclude the exercises at City Hall.

The procession will then march to the Hall of Flags at the State House where the Governor and staff will be assembled to receive the airmen, following which the procession will march to the Parkman Bandstand on the Common, where the fliers will be presented to the public.

After the reception on the Common they will march to their hotel, where luncheon will be had. The fliers will then visit points of interest in and about the city. The fliers will then visit Camp Devens. The concluding event will be a dinner given by the Chamber of Commerce.

HEBRON CAMPERS IMPERILLED BY FIRE

Attleboro, July 29.—One cottage, a barn and a small building were destroyed and the entire Hebron camping ground, with 81 hundreds of cottages, was threatened by fire when a flaming pillow, which was thrown through the window of the Edward Thompson's cottage after it had exploded, set fire to pine needles.

The fire spread quickly, first setting fire to the Thompson cottage and then to the barn on the Robinson estate. The fire departments of surrounding villages hurried to the scene, and it took 3,000 feet of hose to reach the part of the grounds where the fire was.

BURGLARS FLEE AFTER DRILLING SAFE

An expensive outfit of tools, including an electric drilling machine, drills and chisels, was abandoned by burglars when they were frightened away after breaking into the office of the Quality Laundry at No. 3 Hobson street, Somerville, and fled when they saw the glare of headlights of a car operated by Rollin McCready of Somerville, on bicycle, who drove into the yard.

Three holes had been drilled in the door of the safe, which, both believe, contained a large sum of money missing from collections made during the day.

MRS. FERGUSON HOLDS FIRM TO 2D PLACE

Dallas, Texas, July 29.—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson of Temple led by 11 counts her lead on second place in the Democratic gubernatorial primary, to 4,746 votes, it was announced by the State election department.

The new totals for the three leading candidates: Ferguson, 157,161; Mrs. Pat Nixon, 152,415; Dunlap, 147,669. The 4,746 votes separating Ferguson from Nixon comprise one of 262 votes which are contested.

DEATH TOLL IN JAPAN SHIPWRECK NOW 154

Tokio, July 29 (A.P.).—Although a few more passengers and members of the crew of the Shinano Maru, which wrecked off the northeast coast of Hokkaido, Island have landed from lifeboats, the passenger list of 69 of the crew still are unaccounted for and believed to have been drowned.

The disaster was due to a collision with the Pregalter Olympic Maru. The Tairei sinking in twenty minutes. The Shinano Maru was damaged but was able to proceed.

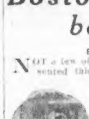
Floods Hit Japan

Tokio, July 29.—Eight hundred houses were inundated in the Kwoshi District today, following the heaviest rains since 1919. Two persons were killed at Kioto as an accompanying storm. Heavy damage was done by flood at Osaka. Property loss is estimated at hundreds of thousands of yen.

Boston Sub-debs Prove Selves to be Excellent Horsewomen

By BETTY ALDEN.

NOT a few of the blithe young maids to be presented this Fall are equestrienses of considerable dash and skill.



Among them is Miss Kathleen Rotch, daughter of Mrs. Henry Parkman, Jr., who has sincerely entered the tan-bark ring on a number of occasions. Just now Miss Rotch, a Winsor School girl, is traveling abroad with her mother. They sailed from New York on board the Paris last week.

Another bud-to-be, ranking high among society's youthful sports-women, is Miss Louise Almy, daughter of the William Almys of Brookline.

Of the North Shore coterie making the all-important bow this Fall are Miss Theodora Ayer and Miss Eleanor Mason. Miss Ayer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Ayer of Dartmouth street and "Juniper Ridge," Hamilton.

Last Winter Miss Ayer, who is quite as ardent a horsewoman as any in her family, was at a boarding school down South. When she came North during vacation time, Mrs. Ayer gave a number of jolly sub-debutante affairs in her honor.

Miss Mason, the daughter of the Herbert W. Masons of Ipswich, is much to the fore in the activities of the shore's younger set. She is, by the way, a member of the committee for the widely-paragraphed horse show which society is putting on August 16 at "Green Meadows," the Burroughs estate at Hamilton. The affair, in which Miss Mary Curtis, who is pictured above, is also interested, is to benefit Welcome House.

MISS MARY CURTIS

Among the dinner hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, 2nd, whose "Gull Rocks" is the scene of innumerable functions throughout the season.

APROPOS of "horsey" events, I note that Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Bristow Draper, whose town residence is on Mt. Vernon street, are of the large group who have engaged parking space for the annual polo tournament at Cohasset Field.

The matches opened Saturday at the Polo Judith Club with Major F. Yeates Brown of England as manager of the tournament. Among the "name participants" are those from Meadow Brook, Long Island, a Flamingo team and an inter-collegiate quartet.

AS usual, there was considerable entertaining over the week-end at Newport, where dances and dinners are being given at a dizzy pace, indeed.

Society Notes

MR. SETH SPRAGUE, the well-known Bostonian, is at Newport for the remainder of the season.

Mr. Cleveland Bigelow of Cohasset is visiting Mrs. George Winthrop Folsom at "Sunnyside," her Lenox estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill Thorndike of the Boston colony at Bar Harbor, gave a reception and tea there the other afternoon at the Pat and Kettle Club.

Mr. and Mrs. George Higginson were recently entertained at dinner in Lenox by Miss Mary Symbhorosa Bristed of "Lakeside."

Mr. and Mrs. N. Hugo Cotton and their daughter, Miss Lilian Cotton of Boston and New York, have again taken an apartment in Bar Harbor at the De Gregoire for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis S. Bisket upon their arrival from Europe, have been spending a few days in Gotham at the Ritz-Carlton before coming on to Boston.

Sixty-five Die in Flood

Mandras, British India, July 29.—Sixty-five persons were killed today by the collapse of a school building which was wrecked by floods. A majority of the homes at Cuddalore have collapsed and a large part of the population of Malabar is homeless.

BIG BOOZE HAUL MADE IN RAIDS AT NEWPORT

Newport, July 29.—Fifteen Federal prohibition agents, led by Deputy Chief A. B. Stroup of Boston, raided three places here today and seized 500 gallons of whiskey, 200 cases and sixty barrels of beer, three tons of hops and five cases of "Old Smuggler" scotch whiskey.

Local police officials were not informed that the raid was coming.

The places raided were: Otto F. Voight's, No. 558 Thames street; "Nolan's," No. 14 Williams street, and Hess Brothers, No. 708 Thames street.

The booze was later placed in a Providence warehouse, three trucks being necessary to convey it there.

BANDIT ARMY RAIDS TOWN IN FLEET OF AUTOS

Minneapolis, Minn., July 29 (U.N.S.).—A bandit army moving in a fleet of motor cars surrounded Dover, Minn., today, blew the safe in the First National bank and terrorized the town for nearly two hours and made off with only a few hundred dollars in loot, when one of their number was injured by a premature blast which failed to open the inner vault.

Two women entered the bank with the safe blowers and are believed to have assisted in the bungled job of cracking the strong box.

G.O.P. CONDEMN RHODE ISLAND GAS BOMBING

Appoints Committee to Probe Outrage and Discipline the Guilty

Providence, July 29.—The executive committee of the Republican State Central Committee, after adopting resolutions deprecating the gas bomb incident which broke up the sessions of the state Senate on June 19, appointed a committee of five to investigate and take such steps as may be necessary in Barrington with charges that Chairman William Pelkey of the Republican Central Committee instigated the bomb throwing.

The committee is: Judge Felix A. Talbot of West Warren; George R. Hall, Westerly; Isaac Gill, Pawtucket; Robert L. Kelley, Barrington and Mrs. Max Levy, Newport.

Chairman Pelkey attended the meeting, which was brief and in executive session. Mrs. Edna Jr. Manton of Providence was in the chair. The resolutions adopted were as follows:

"Resolved, that the Republican Party, acting through the executive committee of the State Central Committee, unequivocally and emphatically deprecates and condemns the so-called gas bomb outrages which occurred in the State Senate on June 19 and if it should be established that any one connected with the party organization countenanced or otherwise took part in this affair, the Republican Party then take such action as will unmistakably reaffirm its insistence on law and order in the conduct of the business of the General Assembly, and its staunch adherence to the constitution and laws of the State.

"And be it further resolved that during the pendency of certain charges alleging a connection between the chairman of the State Central Committee and the so-called gas bomb outrage, a committee be elected to consider the matter and to take such steps as said committee decides proper regarding said charges and the many facts appearing to the so-called gas bomb outrage."

BABY PLAGUE IS ON INCREASE IN SYRACUSE

Syracuse, N. Y., July 29.—A total of 39 cases of infantile paralysis now exist in this city, the health department announced after three new cases had been reported over the week-end. Instructions were issued by the bureau of contagious diseases asking that parents report immediately to the department if their children develop symptoms of the malady.

HYDE PARK MAN IN ARMY DIES AT CAPITAL

Word has been received in Hyde Park of the death of Sergeant Robert F. Towle of the 29th Infantry, U. S. A., and a veteran of the Spanish-American War, in the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, after a long illness.

Fairy Tales Barred From Russia by Bolshevists

Berlin, July 29 (Universal Cable).—Following the order for the destruction of all the works of Tolstoi because they are too "Bourgeois," the Bolshevist committee for popular education, headed by the widow of Nicolai Lenin, has banned from Russia the works of Plato, Kant, Masterlinck, Spencer, Schopenhauer, Nietzsche, Max Ordau, and even the Kropotkin, the famous Russian Nihilist.

More than that, all the fairy tales of Hans Christian Anderson, Grimm, and others which tell of kings, fairy princes and princesses are forbidden, as well as all works on liberalism which deal with equal suffrage and writings which spell "God" with a capital G.

GYPSY JUSTICE TO DECIDE IF GIRL IS WED

Tribes' High Court Sits in Salem to Decide Case of Annie Butch

Salem, July 29.—Gypsy justice is to determine whether Annie Butch is legally married to Stephen Stokes according to the ancient broomstick ceremony of the wandering tribes of Serbia.

Annie Butch

A gypsy high court went into session in the Butch camp near the Lynn line today to sift truth from falsehood and settle the case.

It was presided over by a Rumanian gypsy chief who came all the way from northern Maine for the purpose.

Coincident with the opening of the novel court session there arrived at the Butch camp Peter Stokes, father of Stephen.

Before making his appearance before the tribunal he waited upon Chief of Police Burckes of Lynn and assured him his mission was peaceful. The Lynn chief advised him he had no jurisdiction in Salem but added that peaceable conduct was wise at all times.

It is the contention of Peter Stokes that he paid $7,500 for Annie Butch, fourteen-year-old daughter of Ephraim, chief of the Butch tribe, and that he put the money in Ephraim's hand.

Ephraim denies the allegation and says he never accepted a cent for his daughter.

He maintains he was at perfect liberty to reclaim her from young Stephen Stokes after the later began to beat her.

Stephen, the unwanted bridegroom, was not at the gypsy court today. Through his father, however, he stated he wanted either the girl or the $7,500. And he made it clear that he would prefer the $7,500 to an unloving bride.

SECRETARY HUGHES IS GUEST OF HERRICK

Paris, July 29 (A.P.).—Secretary of State Hughes and Mrs. Hughes, who have arrived in Paris from London, began the day by inspecting in company with Ambassador Herrick, the new American embassy.

The visitors expressed themselves as highly pleased with its location. The work of renovating and decorating the interior of the mansion has not yet been done, but Ambassador Herrick was able to give his chief an idea of what the new official American home in France will look like when completed. Secretary and Mrs. Hughes later dined with M. Jusserand, French Ambassador to the United States.

AMERICANS AND FRENCH PLAN COMPROMISE

Allies Now Hope to Agree on German Loan by End of the Week

London, July 29 (I.N.S.)—French experts attending the Inter-Allied Reparation Conference were engaged today upon the draft of a compromise proposal for the protection of the owners of bonds which will be issued to cover the proposed $200,000,000 German loan.

It is understood the proposal provides that any interested nation may ask for arbitration in the event it believes that penalties which may be imposed upon Germany are injuring rights of bond holders.

The international bankers met to consider the propositions which had been put forward Monday. Chief of these was the suggestion of Colonel A. A. Logan, official observer for the United States, that the question of German default and penalties be put over until the proposed German loan is ready for floctation.

With both the Americans and French offering compromise proposals, hope was high that the conference would be able to reach a definite agreement before the end of the week, by which the Dawes plan can be put into execution by the middle of October.

"The Big Five" heads of the delegations met two and a half hours, while the various delegates conferred. All were striving to find common ground for working out the American, Belgian and French proposals to safeguard the loan.

ONE DEAD, FOUR HURT, AS AUTO TIRE BURSTS

The bursting of an automobile tire cost the life of eight-year-old Katherine Gordon of No. 15 Leonard street, while three other children of the family and the mother, were injured, on the Andover State road, near Reading.

The car was driven by the father, Edward C. Gordon, a Cambridge policeman. It is owned by Julian Pritz of No. 12 Douglas street, Cambridge.

Gordan was driving down a hill and was endeavoring to pass a truck going in the same direction when an approaching car forced him back of the truck.

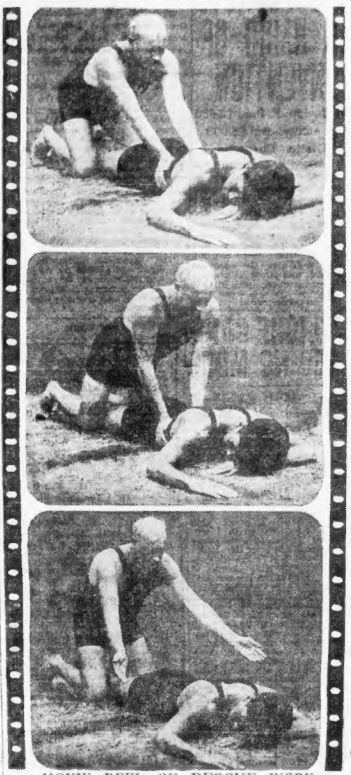
When a tire blew out the machine swerved, went into the ditch and overturned, killing the Gordon child instantly.

ELIZABETH HINES BACK IN 'MARJORIE'

Elizabeth Hines, "Boston's sweetheart," is back on the job with the "Marjorie" company at the Shubert Theatre. So is Ray Royston, the English actor and sweetheart in real life of Miss Hines. The pair quit their jobs with the company, last week, because Royston was refused a raise in pay.

Their notices have been given the management of the company and in two weeks they will leave the cast, but, in the meantime, Boston audiences will see real love-making when Miss Hines and Royston appear opposite each other, as it is understood they are to be married after quitting the company and are to go to London for an engagement.

'Swimming Don'ts' to Protect Life



MOVIE REEL OF RESCUE WORK

Respiration explained and demonstrated by photo. Captain Jack Wallace working on Cavan Dunn of Cambridge:

1—Place hands on sides of back, just below ribs.

2—Lean on with weight of body, forcing bad air up out of lungs.

3—Sudden release of the pressure causes the subject to suck in good air.

The three motions are done slowly and rhythmically, just as if the person being revived were breathing deeply and regularly for himself.

In connection with the Boston American's campaign for safer beaches, the Boston Metropolitan Chapter of the Red Cross has requested the printing of a list of Don'ts for Swimmers.

These "Don'ts" have been compiled as a result of exhaustive study of the causes of drownings and if followed should reduce the number of accidental drownings, now more than 6,000 a year in the United States.

DON'T—Swim on a full stomach. Wait until at least two hours after eating.

DON'T—Continue swimming when exhausted.

DON'T—Swim if you have heart trouble.

DON'T—Dive without accurate knowledge of the depth of the water.

DON'T—Struggle if caught in a swift current or undertow. The force of the current will bring you to the surface.

DON'T—Wade into the water with the arms above the head. You will not be ready to stroke if you step into a hole.

DON'T—Lean backward when wading into the water. Always be ready to fall forward.

DON'T—Fight or struggle to swim if you swallow water. Clear the windpipe of water first.

DON'T—Cry for help in fun. You may need help and not get it.

MOTORBOAT BURNS, FOUR PASSENGERS RESCUED

Haverhill, July 29.—While George H. Swift, auto agent, was cruising off Newcastle Harbor, his $5,000 motor cruiser suddenly burst into flames and threatened the lives of himself and three guests, Mrs. Florence Judkins and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mansur, all of this city. The party was rescued by a passenger boat.

Smith fought the flames while the craft was being towed shoreward, where it was finally beached. Smith was seriously burned about the face and arms.

LEATHER WORKERS GET 10 P. C. INCREASE

Boston local No. 33, United Leather Workers' International Union, ended a strike that had been in progress since July 1. A conference between representatives of its advisory board and the business managers' association of the manufacturers, resulted in granting a 10 per cent. increase in wages and an agreement for the enforcement of strict union conditions.

Some 150 workers and eight manufacturing concerns in Boston making trags and suit cases, are affected.

LILLIAN REESE IS SEEKING DIVORCE

Alleged "Lure" in Blackmail Cases Charges Husband Has Deserted Her

Mrs. Lillian H. Reese, who figured prominently as a witness in the Boston blackmail cases, has filed suit for divorce in Suffolk Probate Court from her husband Edward.

She claims he deserted her shortly after the birth of her last child, Donald, who was born in March, 1916, and that she has not seen or heard from him since.

Mrs. Reese asks custody of Donald and her other child, Helen, who is eleven years of age.

The divorce papers were filed by Attorney Frederick A. Crofts of No. 10 Tremont street. The Reese marriage occurred May 4, 1912 at Boston.

'Flashy Make-up' Is to Be Passed Up By Male Sex

Lucas Point, O., July 29.—Men's apparel, plain this year, is going to be more so next year, according to delegates attending the annual sessions of the Merchant Tailors Designers' Association.

The designers, who are applying their ingenuity to styles for the Spring and Summer of 1925, say that the average man has never looked with favor on the "flashy make-up."

They declare the thing that is causing them the most worry at the present time is the outing and particularly the golfing costume. "We have come the limit in the matter of the golfing outfit," said John R. Aikens of Detroit.

HOTEL BELMONT BAR TO BE CAFETERIA

New York, July 28.—The Hotel Belmont bar after gasping through five years of soft drinks and prohibition is giving up. The Honduras mahogany is to give way to cafeteria white tile.

Prohibition has told its tale. The Belmont would not compete with "meaic eagles" which served liquid dynamite at 50 cents an explosion. The commuters didn't need a shot of "strawberry soda" before going home to the wife.

WARNS PUBLIC ABOUT GIVING OF FUNDS

Disabled Veterans' Officer Hits the Disabled Soldiers' League Canvass in Boston

A warning to the public, advising it against solicitation of funds by the National Disabled Soldiers League was issued today by Fred D. Walker, state department commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

"This is the organization which was formed, by the mayor of Atlantic City, to close its convention, because it intended to hire delegates to pose in a group picture," said Walker. "As commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, Department of Massachusetts, I feel it my duty to a generous public to advise it to ignore this odious way of soliciting funds by this organization and to bear in mind that the Disabled American Veterans of the World War is in no way connected with the matter."

According to Walker the League recently canvassed Greater Boston with packages containing five lead pencils, asking a donation of $1 for each package and later followed this idea up with a letter requesting contributions of $1 each.

MUCH NEEDED RAIN MAY COME WITHIN 48 HOURS

With the thermometer at 78 degrees at 10:45 today a shift of wind from northeast to northwest brought the mercury down three degrees in 15 in ten minutes, forecasting comfortable weather today and tomorrow. The official prediction says: "Party cloudy today with showers tonight. Wednesday fair. Not much change in temperature, fresh northeast winds, shifting to northwest." The local bureau reports the possibility of rain within 48 hours.

After about three dances I used to think it was a delicate attention to a girl to keep away from her.

I can dance now without embarrassment

I inherited my body from ancestors built for hard work. Vigorous exercise, summer or winter, makes me perspire like a fat farmer pitching hay.

After about three dances I used to feel that it was a delicate attention to a girl to keep away from her.

Of course, I bathed. I even tried those things women use, for I was sensitive about it.

How I got rid of body odors

I was going to a dance one night with the girl. That afternoon, in a store, I picked up a cake of Lifebuoy. It smelt clean—the kind of cleanness I needed—not an affected perfume, but a good honest smell that meant business.

Before dressing, I soaked for a minute or two in hot water. Then I worked Lifebuoy into the open pores. Never saw such lather in my life. It wasn't like the stingy, sticky lather I had known, but a great creamy mass of foam with a kick in it. I could feel my skin getting clean by the minute. More dirt came off than I would have believed clean looking skin could conceal.

I had just finished eighteen holes of golf and was tired but after that bath my muscles felt as loose and frisky as a setter pup.

And positively not an odor all evening. Lifebuoy had penetrated to the root of the trouble. My pores were so antiseptically purified that no matter how much I perspired, there was no unpleasantness.

And by the way, my hot and cold Lifebuoy shower in the morning keeps me on my toes all day. I used to dread hot weather—now I like it.

LOOP GREATLY IMPROVES TUNING

Fading Is Often Overcome by Swinging Loop at Right Angles

By ALFRED N. GOLDSMITH
Chief Broadcast Engineer, RCA.

Every broadcast listener has noted that messages coming across a land or ship spark station in one direction can easily interfere with concerts on a nearby frequency wave length coming from a different direction.

If one had a receiver which could receive messages from a desired direction, instead of being open to reception of messages from all directions, it might be possible to eliminate undesired signals.

The simplest form of such a radio telescope is the loop or coil aerial.

The accompanying drawing shows how the signal strength of a concert received on a loop changes as the loop is rotated. It is supposed that the signal comes from the north. When the loop points north the signal is loud, and as the loop is rotated to the east the signal dies down until when the loop points due east the signal has almost entirely disappeared. As the loop is again turned to the south the signal comes back with full strength, to disappear once more when the loop is turned to the west.

FOR BEST SIGNALS.

The simplest way to get a station loudly, as a matter of practical operation after having picked it up, is to swing the loop until the desired signal disappears, and then to swing it exactly at right angles to the disappearing position. This will be found a little more positive than the more obvious method of pointing the coil by trial in the direction giving the strongest signal.

In order to get rid of an undesired station the loop is merely swung until the undesired signal disappears.

If the desired and undesired signals come from nearly the same direction, this method of reducing interference will not be effective.

In steel frame buildings, it is advisable to keep the loop near the windows and not in back of steel columns or long sections of wall.

An interesting point is that it has been found possible to listen to stations hundreds of miles away, operating on broadcasting the same wave length as a powerful local station by utilizing the difference of direction only.

STEEL AFFECTS LOOP.

In the interior rooms of steel frame buildings it will sometimes be found that all signals seem to come from the same direction. This is because the reception is chiefly from the magnetic fields of currents induced by the traveling waves either in the steel or in the electric wiring system of the building.

A nearby wire antenna will increase the signal strength on a loop set when both are tuned to the same frequency. If the long antenna has a regenerative receiver with the tickler brought well up, it will very greatly increase the strength of the signals on the loop receiver.

When using an ordinary long wire antenna receiver nothing can be done about fading. With the loop receiver, however, it will sometimes be found that when a signal fades rapidly, swinging the coil approximately 90 degrees to a new position at right angles to the original position will bring the signal back again.

Radio Queries

I note that there has been great difficulty in getting New York and Pennsylvania stations in Seattle. I do not understand this, as I get WGY, WHN, WJZ, KDKA, WSAI and WGH on a loud speaker with no WNU tubes. I consider this good reception at this time of the year.—Reporter, Seattle, Wash.

It is a fact that reports from a large number of listeners, as well as the American's listener, indicate that the New York stations and KDKA are not coming in as well this Summer as last, although Chicago stations come in better. Decently conditions have improved considerably.

What are your latest reports on winding cylindrical coils for the Superfist, or regarding the old Super coils? Have built the Super and think it a sweetheart of a receiver. Am not thinking of taking it down, but wish to build the Superfist. Even logged over 60 on the new set and I got practically everything. E. H.

The reports on the secondary would determine, together with the condenser used, the tuning range of the set. The number is obviously not critical—from 72 to 74. The turns on the primary should determine the signal pickup—so for getting weak signals and too much coupling oscillation. Either 184 or 8 is correct for primary of first unit just as in the Super, while 20 is about right for Unit No. 2.

Can you tell me where I can get the bonus diagram and other data for the Superfist?

Send your name and a couple of stamps to the Radio Editor.

RADIO TALKS BY POLITICIANS TO BE LIMITED

15-Minute Speeches Only Proposed by Broadcasters

New York, July 29 (A. P.)—Limitation of political campaign speeches by radio to 15 minutes, except in rare instances, is under consideration by some of the largest companies operating broadcasting stations in the Eastern States, it became known.

Officials of the Radio Corporation of America said they had suggested to the speakers' bureaus of the Republican and Democratic national committees that it was undesirable that more than one hour a day be devoted to broadcasting political addresses.

They have also proposed that no single speech exceed a quarter-hour in length and that these short discussions deal with national issues only.

Those in charge of the radio division of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company expressed the expectation that the regular radio programs would continue without appreciable curtailment, and explained that if the broadcasting stations gave too much time to politics the public would lose much of its interest in radio.

The nominees' addresses of acceptance and perhaps one or two other especially important utterances, would be exceptions to such a time limit, if it were agreed upon by the campaign managers.

Here's Chance for Radio Fans to Win Prizes

Puzzles and prizes!
Radio fans—tune in!
Learn about radio and have a lot of fun at the same time.
If you have any curiosity, you'll get out the paste pot and shears and walk off with a prize!

A radio set may be puzzling to college professors, but not to a fan—and this is where the puzzle comes in.

If you know a variable condenser from a transformer, you've got a better chance to win a prize than someone who merely thinks the moon is made of green cheese.

Starting TODAY and continuing each day for the next three weeks the American will publish on the radio page a picture of some familiar piece of radio apparatus, cut up in several pieces.

If you doctor up your own set, the reassembling of the pieces will be fun. Just stick them together in the proper order on a piece of paper and write down the name of the apparatus and what it is used for.

That's all. Send them in with your name to the Radio Puzzle Editor, Boston American, on the day they appeared. They must be received with a week of the day they appear.

The correct answers will appear in the American regularly one week from the day on which the puzzle appeared, so you will be able to check up as the contest continues.

Those sending in the largest number of correct solutions will receive valuable prizes. The list of prizes and the first puzzle of the series appears tomorrow. Don't miss them!

$1.19 A MINUTE FOR RADIO OF CONVENTION

WLW, Cincinnati, Paid $2,550 for Telephone and $5,900 for Station Operative

Station WLW in Cincinnati gives the following report on the cost to them to broadcast the Democratic convention.

The initial cost of the broadcasting for the first day from Madison Square Garden, was $450.00 for the direct telephone line and for each day thereafter, $150.00 was charged. In addition to this, the operation of the station was $50.00 an hour.

The telephone charge was $2560.00 and the station operation $5900.00 for the 118 hours which the convention consumed in its entirety.

This means that it cost $71.72 per hour or about $1.19 per minute, to supply the political information to the WLW listeners.

The Republican Convention in Cleveland, cost $1420.00 for the first day and $2164.00 per day for the duration of the gathering in addition to the $50.00 an hour operating expense of the station.

HEADACHE GONE TIRED NO MORE

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Hopes Other Women Will Benefit by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get about to my work without being all tired out and thought I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what it did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headaches nor tired feeling. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have."—Mrs. PERCY W. RICHARDSON, R.F.D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.

You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

A recent canvass reports 98 out of every 100 women are benefited by

POLICE HUNT GIRL'S ASSAILANT IN VAIN

Worcester, July 29.—A search by the police for the man who attacked Ellen Smith, twenty-four years old, of Crest street, in a wooded district, failed to bring about an arrest.

Miss Smith said the man leaped from behind a bush, gagged her with his hand, and threw her to the ground. She struggled with her assailant for over a minute, finally forcing him to release his grip. He fled taking Miss Smith's pocketbook containing $2, which she had dropped during the struggle.

SEQUEL OF CHICKIE

By Elenore Meherin

Having Tasted the Bitter, This Boston Girl, Wisely Cautious, Seeks the Sweet

CHICKIE walked on, found herself opposite an old church. She went over and entered the garden. At the side door of the chapel an old, furrowed woman, her skin hard and brown as soil, stretched out a lean hand. She raised implor-ing eyes; "Vera poor—vera poor—"

Chickie gave her a dime. She said: "May I go in—"

The old woman nodded: "Sure —sure."

She stood in the back of the church. A young woman with clear features and very beautiful dark eyes stood before a statue. The girl had a child in her arms and raised it upward. Then she bowed her head and prayed. There came such a look of faith and trust to her lowered eyes. Chickie wondered.

As the girl passed she blocked her way. She touched the baby's hand, saying: "Isn't it pretty?"

"Oh—you think so?"

"Very—you are teaching it to pray so early?"

The girl smiled: "Not too soon—I give her to Mary—Mary the Mother of God—she take care—take care of her—"

Chickie walked over and stood before the statue. It was robed exactly in blue and white. Candles burned before it.

She looked at it a long while, seeing a sweetness, an eternal youth and sadness in the features. It moved her—oh—as but so that girl did that a spirit leaned down from heaven and watched and cared and guarded.

She did not feel so—had not felt so in months and months. Yet suddenly she dropped on her knees. She prayed. She asked that this tragedy would not be put upon her.

It was dim within the quiet church; the candles and the flowers a soft brightness like holy smiles. The place was filled with peace.

Going out Chickie's eyes were wet. She bought a paper. There, for the first time in five days was an item—the item she sought.

The First Mile Stone

Five days Chickie had awaited this word. She had lived in the dread of it. Imagination tortured her with visions of a lifeless form lying face down in the shrubs. She hid from this image as from a doom. If life put his death on her hands she would be vanquished.

Now, in the blessed relief, she stood on the corner holding the paper before her. Her eyes blurred, but such an upsurge of joy in her heart as she had not felt in fifteen months. Like a complete and gentle absolution—like a special mercy of Providence.

Leo Willman was not dead. He would not die. So near he had come to it that Chickie did not falter over this. She caught the threads of verse. She was almost in tears because of the weight and terror dropping from her thoughts.

The account in the paper was evasive.

"Leo Willman, missing for the last five days, has returned to his home, suffering from a gun shot wound. It was learned today. Considerable mystery surrounds the disappearance and the shooting.

"Norm Willman, oil magnate, and father of the boy, states that his son set out last Wednesday on a shooting tour. He is alleged to have lost his way in the hills and, attempting to retrace his steps, fell into a ravine. The pistol, which he habitually carried on these trips, is said to have accidentally discharged, inflicting the flesh wound in the left side. A. K. Stokes, who found Willman soon after the accident, was in charge of the young man's identity and of the fact that searchers were combing the hills for a trace of him.

"The physician in charge reports the wound not serious. The police have definitely abandoned their investigations."

Finishing that account, Chickie drew such a deep, audible sigh of gladness that a little woman in a white, duck skirt looking at hat-pins in the store window, glanced up and smiled. Chickie said eagerly: "Isn't it a lovely day?"

Full of Trust

She tucked the paper under her arm and hurried. The mad honking of automobiles, the narrow, crowded streets pouring from the buildings, took on a festive air. Faces seemed open and friendly.

Chickie had a wish to smile at people; to thank someone because a great kindness had come to her. She wished that Mary Blake were walking at her side; that she could say: "Oh, Mary, darling—if you could only know—"

At the entrance to the tunnel she stopped for a chat with the best old woman selling her papers. They had become friends. Chickie said gayly: "Hello, there, Julia! How's the luck today?"

Julia muttered for Chickie to wait while she made change for a blustering, excited man.

Then Julia shook her head. Immense tears rolled slowly down her cheeks. "Cora's boy has the diphtheria. Miss Chickie. She lost two already—"

"Oh—nobody dies with diphtheria today, Julia. Don't you worry!"

Then Julia wanted to know if Chickie were sure, and did she think they could save the lad? Cora was her daughter.

One of those magic people forever followed by misfortune. Her husband was a brakeman. He was killed. Two of her children died the following winter with the "flu." She earned her living as a laundress. She had only this one little son left her.

Chickie said: "Oh, he won't be taken . . . I'm just sure—" and she was just then so full of trust in an unseen goodness that she could have squeezed her heart and offered its thankfulness to any one who needed.

Julia wiped her eyes. "Nice in you to stop, Miss. Will you be inquiring tomorrow?"

Chickie dropped a dollar in Julia's hand and wouldn't stop for the change.

She went into the back yard and called to Wildie. He went leaping to his corner and came with the mash in his mouth. And they walked so quickly, with such a swing, that the dog perked his ears in a lordly, strutting way. He jumped up ones to give her a flashy kiss with his tongue.

Chickie laughed—a long, bright laugh. Wildie stopped and began pawing with his front feet. He did this whenever he became excited.

Now his deep, shiny brown eyes were fully of inquiry, as though he said: "No—not for a lark, are we? All right if I wag my tail?"

Chickie caught his neck and shook it. Nights and nights he had walked along, smoothly, sensing her quiet, rubbing his flank against her dress. A hundred times she had been warmed by this comfort.

Tonight she was touched by the selfless devotion. She ran when he pulled too hard—then she called for him to stop. They reached home breathless. For the first time she felt a lightness in her heart.

But, going through the hall, she found a letter in the rack. As it passed, studying the envelope, through the window, a change of the young man's identity and of the fact that searchers were combing the hills for a trace of him.

The physician in charge reports. He would not mention. The police have definitely abandoned their investigations."

Finishing that account, Chickie drew such a deep, audible sigh of gladness that a little woman in a white, duck skirt looking at hat-pins in the store window, glanced up and smiled. Chickie said eagerly: "Isn't it a lovely day?"

More About Fireless Cookers and Some Recipes

THE guesswork and uncertainty of cooking is never found in homes where a fireless cooker is used. An inexperienced cook is assured of tender roasts and other dishes cooked just right if she has a fireless.

The reason is that a fireless is self-burning, self-stirring, self-watching, self-operating. No skill is required. The food cannot help but turn out right. Any recipe will do.

Even if the most soup or vegetables in the fireless are ruined and ready to serve, it will not deteriorate if allowed to remain in longer than necessary.

This advantage is appreciated when preparing food before going to church, and having it ready to eat later. Or away for hours, to have a meal waiting your return.

Carried On Trips

Many fireless enthusiasts carry their stove with them on motor trips in the Summer time and have hot food instead of the usual cold lunch. Medical science, dietary experts, domestic science authorities say fireless cooked food is healthier because it is better cooked and more nutritious. Fireless cooked meats are famous for their superior flavor, and the fireless cook stove has long been recommended for cooking baby's cereal.

The raw food is put into the fireless cookstove with the radiators, the lid is closed, and the cooking process proceeds without further watching or regulation. In roast meats, for instance, a temperature of 300 or 350 degrees sears the outside surface and holds the savory juices in, then the temperature gradually recedes, just as it would in the oven if the gas were turned down. This is done automatically and perfectly.

While the cooking proceeds, the meal is being continually heated with the steam which rises, condenses, and falls back over the meat. All the moisture is retained, keeping the meat tender and soft as the potatoes, but not drawing out the fine breakfast of the fruit thorough searing of the surface.

How To Save

Here are eight ways you can save by using a fireless:

1—The first cost of a fireless cook stove is the last. Once in use it immediately starts paying for itself and fast saving—and in many other saving ways.

2—You can buy less expensive meats, cook them in the fireless and they will taste like choicest cuts. You save on the meat bill.

3—About 20 minutes' use of gas range or stove will store up enough heat in the radiators to cook an entire meal. You save 80 per cent. fuel expense.

4—As there is no evaporation, shrinkage or burning of food fireless cooked, you save on food.

5—Once you prepare the food and put it into the fireless, it requires no further attention. It solves the bothersome servant problem. It saves work.

6—The fireless makes food more healthful. Invalids can digest and assimilate fireless cooked meats and cereals. Foods for infants requiring thorough cooking, should always be fireless cooked. It is certainly true that a fireless saves doctor bills.

6—Divorce records show that poor cooking helps destroy home peace. How often wrongly cooked food, causing indigestion, also poisons the mind and heart. Even in the happiest of homes there should be a fireless, making better tasting meals and saving against domestic trouble.

8—Providing a means of relieving the housewife of any need to stay at home while the food is cooking in her fireless, she can go shopping, to the matinee, enjoy social life, and all the time feel that her meals will be well cooked and ready to serve on her return.

8—A fireless ends the horrible drudgery of cooking during Summer months. It lightens the work of heavier Winter cooking. In many homes it is saving a woman's life.

Value of Soup.

The real value of soup is improved by fireless cooking. Meats and bones for soup cost but little and by using the fireless method the real expense of the dish—the long cooking over a fire and constant watching—is done away with, and it becomes one of the most economical as well as healthful of foods.

The foundation of most soups is the juice or extracts of meats, poultry, etc. that are used, and the true flavor and nourishment of these things are developed more fully in a fireless cooker than by any other method. Use one radiator heated 450-475 degrees.

Plain Stock

Use about 2 lbs of the kind and cut of meat. Wash the meat and cut it into inch cubes. Place in with the meat 2 qts. of cold water, 6 whole cloves, 1 bay leaf, 6 peppercorns, 1 sprig of parsley, 1 small onion, a small piece of turnip and carrot. Boil 10 minutes. Cook this in the fireless for 6 or 8 hours or over night. Use one radiator. Remove and strain through a colander.

When cold remove every particle of fat. This stock may be used for making different kind of soup. It will keep for several days.

Clam Chowder

One qt. clams, ¼ tsp. pepper, 4 cups potatoes cut fine, 4 cups milk, 1 onion, 1 tbsp. salt, 4 tbsps. butter, ¼ lb. salt pork.

Clean and pick over clams, reserving liquor. Chop fine. Cut pork in small pieces and fry out. Add clams, onion, liquor and potatoes, also seasoning and 2½ cups boiling water. Remove to fireless for three hours. Use one radiator. If too thick, add milk to make required consistency when removed from cooker.

SMART AND YOUTHFUL

4814 Embroidered voile, figured silk or linen.

The pattern is cut in four sizes, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. A 16 year size requires 2¾ yards of 40-inch material. The width of the dress at the foot is 1¾ yards. For collar, vestee and facings of contrasting material ⅛ yard 32 inches wide is required.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

WHY should I be trying to keep anything from you?" I equivocated determinedly, smiling at old Barty Tompkin s across side of fire. "I came here to thank you for getting the Allington & Barty account for me. I'm not deceiving you in that?"

Ann Lisle

"You're a fine business woman but a rotten bad gossip," blundered old Barty. "I like you. The way you came across with the money for that option when young Hyland failed, got to me. The way you've kept up the search for the boy got me all more. And I take off my hat to a woman who can sit there with her head up and keep her own counsel when her heart is breaking."

"Your grandson has given me a wonderful contract. He's a big man in every way. And he's so like you in his soul that I feel as if he were an old friend. I'm praying all the money that disappeared with Neal, but, of course, you know that?"

"I did," grunted me old man.

"Smart women!" was the reply, but it seemed tinged with sarcasm.

"So I'll say thank you and go," I concluded, rising with an assumption of ease which I didn't feel.

"Sit down!" he stormed as vigorously as he had ordered me to conclude my interview and go on a previous occasion. "Now look here—I won't be hoodwinked. Don't try to fool me. It's all over with the boy, isn't it?"

"No!" I cried, flinging my head up defiantly.

"Don't lie to me. I can see through a thing or two. Neal, Hyland is done for. That gang murdered the boy. What are you sitting still for? Why don't you go out and get them? Don't you know why I put you in with Allington & Barty? I want you to have enough money so you can get the gang that did for Neal.

"Stop! Don't say a word. I'm not a fool. I've had my own men on the case. I've had reports. I know all about it. I know you're taking risk on faith because you love the brother I adore.

3,000 GO ON AMERICAN'S OUTING

Mothers and Kiddies Make Merry on Third Trip to Nantasket

More than 3,000 kiddies and their mothers are today the guests of the Boston American on the Third Mothers' and Children's Day Outing at Nantasket, where they are having the time of their lives with the many good things offered.

The first boatload of happy, delighted youngsters with their "mammies" left at 9.15 followed by a second boat an hour and a half later.

Manager Lane of the Nantasket Steamboat Line was on hand early with his corps of assistants to see that everything went along smoothly and that everyone from the smallest to the oldest guest was safely embarked.

After the delightful sail down the harbor, past the numerous islands, the party arrived at Nantasket, where it was greeted by Howard J. Bushway of the Bushway Ice Cream Company, who, with his men passed out a brick of his famous delicious cream to everyone of the delighted youngsters.

Then they ran across Frances S. Cummings, of the Cummings Milk Company, and he, too, directed his staff in the distribution of 3,000 bottles of his pasteurized milk to the kiddies of the American outing.

To carry out the many novel surprises for which he is famous, "Daddy" Frank Archer, of the Mosk Company, was on hand again, with 2,000 of his specially prepared lollypops, and how the kiddies went after those "suckers."

As they passed away from "Daddy" Archer, they met Manager Sargent of the Berwick Cake Company, who had a thick load of his famous Pound Cake, which he passed out and the munching of goodies began.

Then American's happy family, girls, boys, mothers and infants lined up at Paragon Park, the great amusement centre of Nantasket, where they were guests of Manager Joe Stone.

Attention is called to those mothers and children who had tickets dated August 5, next Tuesday, that this will be the last outing of the season. Be sure and leave on the boat for which your ticket calls, and you will be in for the same kind of a treat as the members and children received today.

THREE STATES FIGHT TO CHECK ANTHRAX

Memphis, Tenn., July 29.—Federal, State and County forces joined today to check the spread of anthrax in Mississippi, Tennessee and Arkansas, where more than a score of persons and approximately 7,000 head of cattle are reported to have died of the disease. Reports indicated a serious situation in Mississippi and Arkansas, while certain small areas in Tennessee, Louisiana and Missouri, were said to be infected.

Governor Herbert L. Whitfield, of Mississippi said twenty-five counties in that State had infected herds, and not about sixteen persons had six to eight persons.

died. Arkansas reported twenty-freted counties, with a death list this ominous day as announced.

200 MORE MAY GET TRAINING AT DEVENS

New England Quota for Citizens' Training Camp Increased

Two hundred more young men may attend the Citizens' Military Training Camps at Camp Devens and Fort Adams, R. I., the quota for New England having been increased by the United States War Department. Men desiring to take advantage of this fine opportunity to get in the open and obtain proper training under competent officers should apply directly to the army headquarters, Boston, where they will be examined and arrangements made for their induction.

Arrangements have been made for a total of 1,000 additional men at the New England camps over the original quota. All who have applied for admission and who did not withdraw are expected to be present on this opening day as announced.

WIFE WITHOUT FUNDS AS MAN DISAPPEARS

MRS. MAYNARD P. HERSAM

Wife of man missing since last Saturday, when he left hotel to see lawyer who is settling his father's estate.

Search by radio has been started for Maynard P. Hersam, who disappeared from the Hotel Arlington after stating he was on his way to the office of a State street lawyer.

Hersam, according to his wife and her sister, who have been left stranded at the hotel, told her he was the son of the late Alfredia R. Hersam of Somerville, a former official of the Boston & Maine road, and that he was engaged in settling his father's estate from which he expected a considerable sum.

The missing man is described as being about thirty-eight years old 5 feet 8¼ inches tall and weighs about 146 pounds. He is of light complexion and wore a gray suit with dark stripe, straw hat, gray silk socks and brown shoes.

SLEEPLESS LORDAN IS ON JOB

Bathing Girls, Pandemonium, Sneak Thieves, Fire Engines Among Those Present

When Prohibition Agent Dennis Lordan went after two alleged bootleggers at Nantasket Beach early today he started something.

Five hundred wildly excited Summer residents, a score of small store proprietors, yelling police officers, firemen, fire apparatus, sneak thieves, girls in bathing suits and nightclothing, sober men and others not so sober—

All were on the scene then Dennis Lordan, prohibition agent who seldom sleeps, grabbed Philip Blatt of Floyd street, Dorchester, and another alleged bootlegger inside a store at No. 272 Nantasket avenue in the "we sun' lers."

"Sleepless" Lordan also seized five cases of alleged whiskey and a touring car.

SHOUTS FOR HELP.

Lordan, walking along enjoying the cool breeze, spied Blatt and another carrying heavy burden from the car into the vacant store.

He gathered an armful o men and shouted for help.

A copper came on the jump and held 'em for a while.

Meanwhile Lordan went inside the store, found the five cases and emerged to discover the neighborhood in pandemonium.

There was the cop, minus one prisoner, calling loudly and blowing his whistle the while holding on to Blatt.

From a score of still-open stores bearded men in white aprons ran to see what 'twas all about. Came, too, nearly 500 other men, women and children.

Some one got excited and sounded an alarm of fire. Shrieking of five whistles and pumping of motor engines aNd ladder trucks added to the din.

SEAK THIEVES BUSY.

Then a couple of sneak thieves took advantage of the situation They went to work on the cash registers of stores deserted by the many bearded and aproned men.

They were discovered an dwild yells from the owners of stores went up as they visualized empty cash drawers.

A crowd of inebriated youths started to brawl. Girls in "nighties" and girls in bathing suits lined up on the sidewalks to cheer the combatants.

Police reinforcements spoiled a "nice party."

Philip Blatt will answer charges of illegal transportation before the United States Commissioner today.

Prohibition Agent Lordan aims to grab "forty winks" some quiet afternoon.

Boy Runs Away; Folks Moved On Return

New York, July 29.—George Gerrose, ten years old, ran away from home a week ago.

When the lad was found on a subway train and taken to his former home, the family had moved.

Now George is at the police station, sobbing. He said he lived for a week on "hot dogs and coffee," and "pounded his ear" on subway trains.

A search is being made for the missing family.

SISTERS STONE WINDOWS TO SAVE FAMILY

A fusillade of stones thrown through the plate glass windows of a burning store on Chestnut street in Lynn by three sisters, saved the lives of six persons sleeping in a tenement above the store early today.

The sisters whose presence of mind saved the six lives are Mrs. George Hughes of No. 37 Jefferson street, Lynn; Mrs. Annie Cuphbert of No. 194 Eastern avenue, Lynn and Mrs. Edward Lucier of Worcester.

George Hughes was driving his wife and her sisters home when the women discovered fire in the store of Morris Rosen at No. 451 Chesnut street. They screamed for Hughes to stop the car and before the machine had stopped they jumped out.

FAMILY ABOVE STORE.

Above the store was the apartment of Edward Tibbetts, who with his wife and four children, one of them a baby of five weeks were asleep.

The women realized that there was no time to rush into the building and arouse the sleepers. In the street were a number of heavy cobblestones and these the sisters hurled, with unerring aim hrough the windows of the burning store.

The noise of the falling glass aroused Tibbetts. He in turn aroused his wife and children.

PRAISED BY FIREMEN.

Before the family had time to don outer clothing, the three sisters had fought their way through the smoke-filled hall, and assisted them to the street.

The Lynn firemen responded to an alarm turned in by a passerby and the building was saved.

The cool-headed work of the three sisters, according to the Lynn fire department alone saved the Tibbetts family from destruction.

KILLS HIS LOVE RIVAL IN STREET AND ESCAPES

Haverhill, July 29.—So far as Misha Serrators of Bradford is concerned, the puzzle of the eternal love triangle is solved.

Months ago Serrators's wife went away from him. She is young. He is older, and plain.

Then she returned to him, and the elderly husband blamed Joseph Grampa, of No. 26 Front street, Bradford, for her absence.

The men met today on Washington street in Haverhill. Both were on their way to work.

Without haste and without hesitation Serrators drew a revolver and shot his rival through the heart. Then he disappeared.

Hundreds of mill hands saw the shooting, but most of them knew the circumstances and nobody tried to bar the escape of the killer. It is believed by the police that he went in the direction of Lawrence, with the intention of losing himself in the foreign colony there.

The victim is the father of eight children

MISSING WINSTED SCHOOLBOY SOUGHT

The Boston police have been requested to trace the whereabouts of Emanuel Panera, a sixteen-year-old school boy of Winsted, Conn., who has been missing from his home for the past three weeks. The boy is the only son of John and Kate Panera, the father being a prominent real estate man of Winsted.

Emanuel Panera

The anxiety caused by the son's absence has so preyed upon the mind of the mother that she is in a dying condition at her home. They fear some harm has befallen him. He is about five feet, six inches tall, has dark hair and eyes and weighs about 150 pounds. Any information concerning him would be appreciated by communicating with K. Constantin, No. 287 Columbus avenue, Boston.

TRAFFIC TOWER TRIAL SOON ON BOYLSTON ST.

Traffic towers of the so-called "block system" type, such as are now used in New York, are to be tried out in Boston, according to Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson in a statement before the special legislative recess committee now investigating problems relating to the control, supervision and regulation of motor vehicles.

"In Boston," said Commissioner Wilson, "there are only two places where such a system can be effectively used. One of these is Boylston street. At points where traffic is worst it cannot be used because of crooked streets.

TWO HAVERHILL FIRMS ACCEPT UNION SCALE

Haverhill, July 29.—The L. M. Leavitt Counter Company and the Brown Company, two of the largest shoe counter makers and both independent of the manufacturers association, today signed one-year wage and working agreements with the Shoe Workers Protective Union at existing rates. Agreements with all other counter manufacturers in the city were on Thursday and the union has refused to accept the manufacturers' proposal to cut wages 12½ per cent.

ASK JAIL TERMS FOR 3 CAUGHT ON RUM BOAT

New York, July 28.—Customs officials today requested the federal attorney's office to get jail sentences for the three prisoners arrested on the converte dsubmarine chaser Williams 18th, seized as a rum runner off Montauk Point with 700 cases of liquor aboard.

The $150,000 boat, torn from stem to stern from machine gun fire by the customs patrol boat's crew, was relieved of her liquor cargo today.

Seek Moose Session

New York, July 29.—Cleveland and Montreal delegates to the Loyal Order of Moose convention here began today efforts to bring the next gathering of the order to their city, good spirits.

HUGHES TELLS FRENCH OF LEGAL CONSCIENCE

Paris, July 29 (A.P.).—Lawyers whose diplomas are sealed "by an authority of conscience which is higher than that of any government" must furnish the leadership for the democracies of the world, for "if we are true to our profession, we are apostles of progress," Secretary of State Hughes declared at the reception of the Paris Bar Association to American lawyers.

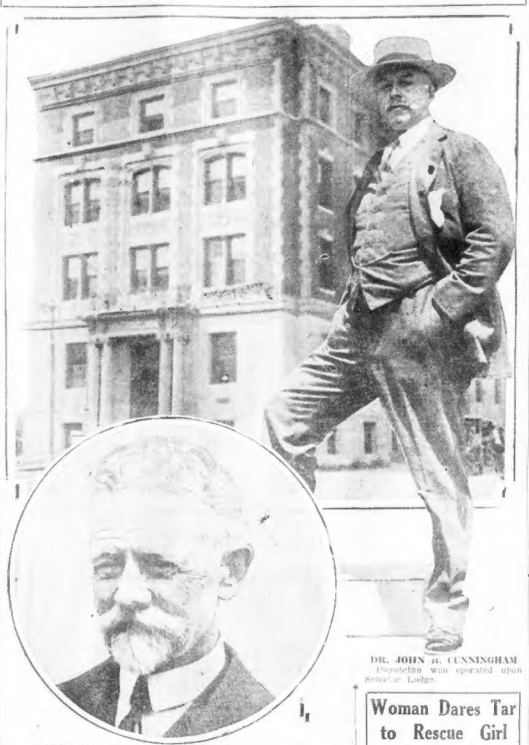
FEDERAL OFFICES AT SPRINGFIELD REOPEN

Recent orders of the Department of Justice closing the Springfield office and dividing the territory comprising five western Massachusetts counties among Hartford, Albany and Boston, have been rescinded and the two Springfield officers ordered to Hartford have received instructions to reopen their local office.

WIFE ON HER VACATION, REVERE MAN KILLS SELF

While his wife was on a vacation trip, Max Goldstein, fifty-four, of No. 3 Ford street, Revere, was found dead in bed with a gas-tube in his mouth. A neighbor smelled gas and her son broke into the house. Goldstein's son-in-law, Samuel Leavitt, of Revere street, Revere, said he left Goldstein last night apparently in

WHERE SENATOR LODGE IS ILL



DR. JOHN H. CUNNINGHAM

Prostatectomy was operated upon Senator Lodge.

SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE

SENATOR LODGE CONTINUES TO IMPROVE

Refreshed by a perfect night's sleep, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge awoke today feeling much improved.

At the Charlesgate Hospital in Cambridge, where he is recovering after an operation for an obstruction of the bladder, it was stated officially that his condition was "satisfactory in every way."

Dr. John H. Cunningham, who performed the operation, visited the patient at 8:30 o'clock today.

When he left the sick room he said the Senator had slept like a child and would be able to eat anything he liked today, as well as smoke as many big black cigars as he chose.

Only members of his family and his private secretary are being admitted to the sick room, although messages of condolence from thousands of friends have been read to him.

As soon as he is strong enough the Senator will have to undergo a second and supplementary operation. It is probable that it will be performed before he leaves the hospital, but not certain.

In view of his satisfactory recovery after the first ordeal, surgeons have little fear that the second will have grave results. His recuperative powers have amazed both doctors and nurses at the Charlesgate.

DAWES TO SPEAK IN MAINE AND NEBRASKA

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice-presidential nominee, will open the Republican national campaign at Lincoln, Neb., on August 23. He will make a speech in Maine in behalf of the State ticket on August 23.

DAVIS SPEEDS UP AS VACATION NEARS END

Dark Harbor, Islesboro, Me., July 29.—With only twenty-four hours of his Maine vacation remaining, John W. Davis devoted much of his time today to finishing up the address he will deliver at Clarksburg, W. Va., on August 11, accepting the Democratic presidential nomination.

His calendar was clear of engagements, and his only recreation was a golf match in the later afternoon on the course at the Tarrantine Club. Accompanied by Mrs. Davis and his friends, Frank L. Polk, the nominee will leave tomorrow afternoon for New York, arriving there Thursday morning.

Again at his desk in his headquarters, Mr. Davis will plunge immediately into the task of clearing away the many problems awaiting solution since he has been here in the Penobscot Bay Island, resting and preparing the all-important address of the campaign.

There will be a series of conferences with Clem L. Shaver, his campaign manager, and other leaders, among them Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York. Mr. Davis again will urge the Governor to become the party candidate to succeed himself and is hopeful that this time his effort will meet with success.

After one week in ew York, Davis will proceed to his old home at Clarksburg. Upon being informed today that his friends and neighbors there plan a homecoming celebration for him, Mr. Davis decided to time his arrival for Saturday, August 9, instead of Sunday, August 10.

ZAHND WITHDRAWS IN FAVOR OF LA FOLLETTE

Indianapolis, July 29.—John Zahnd of Indianapolis, nominated for President of the National Independent party here July 9, today announced his withdrawal from the presidential race in favor of the La Follette-Wheeler ticket.

Woman Dares Tar to Rescue Girl Who Got Coat

Frederick, Md., July 29 (I.N.S.).—Defying those who have threatened her unless she "cleared out of town," Mrs. Viola Kennedy announced today that she would go to the county jail to obtain the release of Dorothy Grandon, who was tarred and feathered by a band of 50 men. The latter says:

"I don't care what they say," she declared. "I am going to get that girl out of jail."

DAVIS ISSUES DENIAL OF NON-UNION MINE STORY

Terre Haute, Ind., July 29.—A Sullivan, Ind., newspaper today prints a letter from John W. Davis, Democratic Presidential nominee, in which he makes denial that he is interested in non-union coal mines in West Virginia, or that he was one of Charles G. Dawes' "minute men." The letter says:

"I own no stock whatever in any coal mine, union or non-union, or, for that matter, any coal or coal lands. I was never one of Charles G. Dawes' 'minute men.' I have never been opposed to labor unions and thoroughly believe they are necessary to the welfare, not only of the laboring man, but the community as well."

WHEELER'S SISTER ON LA FOLLETTE TICKET

Mrs. Maude Wheeler Mitchell of, No. 163 Bridgham street, Hudson, sister of Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, notified the Massachusetts managers of the La Follette-Wheeler campaign that she would serve as a presidential elector from the fifth congressional district on that ticket. She has been in Washington for two years as her brother's secretary. There will be 18 men and women on the ticket.

KLAN ATTACKS CAMP OF SPIRITUAL ALLIANCE

Greenfield, July 29.—White-robed members of the Ku Klux Klan burned a cross, set off two bombs and otherwise threw the Lake Pleasant camp meeting ground into a furor of excitement in a demonstration against two colored women.

One of the women is the Rev. Mrs. Mary E. Coleman, an ordained colored clergyman of Philadelphia, who left the city a month ago during the deportation riots.

The other woman is Mrs. Hester Green, No. 9 Sullivan street, Charlestown, aged widow of Charles H. Green, who served faithfully for thirty-three years in the United States Navy and at the Charlestown Navy Yard and who was buried with full military honors.

CAMP PURCHASE BARRED.

The presence of the woman clergyman as a guest at the Home Comfort House at the camp grounds aroused the ire of the Klansmen. Likewise, it had been reported that the widow of the Charlestown veteran was contemplating the purchase of a camp. The Klansmen objected to this too, it was asserted.

The Rev. Mrs. Coleman hired a room at the Home Comfort House from the owner of the National Spiritual Alliance, to which the New England Spiritualist Camp Meeting Association, owners of the Lake Pleasant Camp Meeting Ground, is affiliated.

GATHER AT MIDNIGHT.

Klansmen motor cyclists escorted several automobiles containing the Klansmen to their homes across. They brought the cross and the bombs. The Klansmen in the automobiles were said to have been joined by Klansmen from among the 400 persons occupying the 200 cottages at Lake Pleasant.

The cross was set up in front of Rev. Mrs. Coleman's window at the Home Comfort House. Fifty Klansmen in their white robes and hoods formed a semi-circle about the cross, which was set afire.

The face of the woman preacher appeared at her window and the Klansmen pointed to her and then to the cross but no words were uttered. At that moment two bombs went off, one at one end of the camp ground and the other at the other end.

Some of the Klansmen displayed revolvers. To questioners they said they were prepared for any emergency in case of attack.

BRAVE CAST-OFF ADDS NEW LIFE TO PIRATES' DEFENSE

CATCHING BEST OF CAREER

By NICK FLATLEY

AMBITION is all right in its place, but when its brought by visiting athletes and raises whack with the home team, it's not so good. Which is to say that nobody will be exactly sorry to see the Pittsburgh Pirates go away from here, which they do after playing this P. M. The invading young men are obsessed with the idea of collecting as much extra money as possible at the end of the sason, so they don't show much consideration for the lowly Braves.

The Pirates haven't had much of a pitching edge on the natives, but they have produced six most sparkling defense seen in these parts for many moons, and have, accordingly collected three ball games in a row. They had to produce four double plays to get away with the third one, but they produced them. Had the team realized its own possibilities a bit earlier, the Giants wouldn't be riding so easily on the top of the baseball world.

THE ease of Bill Smith causes one to wonder just how famous some athletes might become if they had the dominant spirit and craving desire to win that makes Ty Cobb and the other real stars great. Old was with our Braves not so long ago and he never was what might be called a necessity. He couldn't throw, and he didn't show much temper, though he did hit the baseball once in a while.

After an internal rumpus, attended by black eyes and other things, he was handed over to the Pirates, and he's a two weeks sensation at present. He's hustling hard to be one of the striving Corsairs, hitting like a fool, and knocking down pretentious base stealers with marvelous regularity. Thirteen of the 15 men who have tried to steal against him have been picked off. It was almost the other way round when he was a Wigwamer. Old's range is likely to wear out shortly, as soon as the novelty of catching every day wears off, but as we intimated at the beginning, his present baseball would make him a high-priced hero if he kept it up. Just has a fighting heart, as we hope he will.

YOUNG YDE, who chucked the hostiles to victory, tucked away his seventh successive ball game. Not a bad record for a youth having his first fling at the large stuff. He has gone the distances the lucky number of times, and has yet to have a defeat marked against him. He has been lucky that way, as several sharpshooters who relieved him had to take the onus of defeat, as well as the heavy task.

Yde is a fast southpaw, with an abundance of control, which he must have discovered in Oklahoma City, where the Pirates found him. He works easily, and is well on his way to succeed Wilbur Cooper, the game's greatest portsider through quite a flock of campaigns. The youngster, whose veteran and announced Edee, is a Dane, but not at all melancholy. He makes the other fellows that way.

SOMERVILLE fans have ceased to worry after watching Pie Traynor swing his mallet in five series. Harold, who hails from the adjoining hamlet had the most unneeded batting average in the game. In the opening months of the campaign. After fighting for the start lead all last year, he slipped down with the pitchers this Spring. He was benched for two weeks, and the slump subsided. When he was put back in the game, he proceeded to hit safely in fourteen consecutive games. He's pulling the ball on the profusion once more, and will be back with the .300 gang when the club comes here for its final visit in September.

Moe and Joe They Get the Dough---Sometimes

Moe volplaned on Nose Dive yesterday which is something unusual for him to do these days. But he still has an enviable record for the past two weeks and expects to continue it for the balance of this meeting. He is going back to one of his former specials today and it should breeze down in front if Charlie Ballard doesn't put in a poison ticket on him.
WELL, IF I WERE YOU I'D PUT MY DOUGH ON Priscilla Ruley
WHO DO YOU THINK WILL COP THE Fourth SCAMPER?
WHY THAT EASTER BUNNY ISN'T GOOD ENOUGH FOR A MERRY-GO-ROUND! WHAT A FALSE ALARM THAT NAG IS!
IS THAT SO! WELL, I'M THE OWNER!! YOU CAN'T TALK LIKE THAT!
Just to show you that I was only kidding I'm going to buy $1000 worth of Priscilla Ruley in the fourth hop.
SAY! CAN'T YA GIMME THAT DOUGH BACK! I JUST BET ON THAT GOAT FOR SELF PROTECTION!

TANDEM RACE TO ADD ZEST TO BIKE CARD

A six-team tandem event will again add zest to the bicycle program at the Revere Beach track tomorrow night. Twelve of the best quintet riders, recruited from Worcester, Providence, New York, Chicago, Newark and Revere, are expected to take part in the event, which has proven so popular with the fans.

The feature attraction will introduce a 40-mile international motor-paced race. Clarence Carman will have Larry Gaffney of New York for a partner. Marcel Godivier will team up with Henri Fossier, representing the French team, and Vincent Madonna and Pasquale Vaffoni will defend the Italian colors. A more evenly matched field would be hard to find and with the free-for-all pedals attending a race of this kind is sure to bring out some thrilling brushes.

It is expected that Carman, Godivier and Madonna will do the heavy set part of the riding in so much as they are the fleetest trio at the distances. Carman is a star performer as the middle-distances which he showed recently when he won a 25 mile race f om a fast field. The Jamaica rider now is pedalling at his best and with Gaffney riding anywhere near the form he displayed Saturday night, the others will have plenty of speedy competition.

HACK WILSON, OF GIANTS, REAL FIND FOR McGRAW

New York, July 29.—Every once in a while a youngster comes into the big league and makes good. This year Hack Wilson, outfielder of the Giants, short and pudgy, but with a pair of shoulders like a wrestler, is the "star" of the National League. Wilson is a fixture. He is at the heels of Rogers Hornsby for batting honors, can field his position with the best of them and is the "spark plug" of the older circuit. Wilson's specialties are three-base hits—very timely hits. McGraw got him from the Virginia League, and he did not cost a fortune, like some of the "discovery" who also tried to graduate from the minors.

Mitchell Breaks Hand

New York, July 29. — The scheduled 10-round bout between Sid Terris of this city and Ray Mitchell of Philadelphia to have been held at the Queensboro stadium tonight was postponed indefinitely when Mitchell said he had a broken hand. The ten-round final between Tommy O'Brien and Joe Welling of Chicago and the ten-round preliminary between Jimmy Delaney and Curly Di Marco of Pittsburgh also were called off.

POLO TOURNEY FOR MYOPIA NEXT MONTH

The annual Dedham-Myopia tournament which was scheduled for the Dedham Country and Polo Club this season will be held at Myopia Hunt and will be played between Aug. 12 and 23, it was announced this morning.

The change in plans was brought about by the poor condition of the Dedham turf field, which is partly due to the dry weather and partly to the fact that all the play at Dedham this season has been on the club field, instead of two fields as in previous seasons. Dedham, as a result, will doubtless hold the tournament on its field next season.

LEONARD AND MORAN AGAIN—AUG. 11

Billy Gibson, manager of Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, confirmed the report that Leonard had been signed to engage in a ten-round no-decision fight with Pal Moran in Cleveland on Aug. 11. In making this announcement, Gibson stated that the bout would not interfere with the proposed meeting with Mickey Walker, which still stands scheduled for Jersey City on Aug. 21.

There were no new developments in the Walker-Leonard situation, although Tex Rickard, promoter of the match, and Walker held a long conference in Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon. Neither, however, would say what they had conferred about.

LEAGUE PREXY TAKES OVER SLIPPING CLUB

Flint, Mich., July 29.—T. J. Hallinan, president of the Michigan-Ontario League, has gone to Grand Rapids to take personal charge of that club there, as directed by league officials in special session.

W. T. Morrissey, owner, withdrew his support from the team and gave all players their releases, many being returned to clubs in the American Association, Western League and other circuits where they are owned.

INTER-CITY GAME AT SOMERVILLE

The Medford City Club will cross bats with the Somerville Gyros in the second game of a three-game series tonight at Richard Trum Field, Somerville.

Sam Murphy's Medfordites have already chalked up one victory over their Somerville rivals and a win tonight would clinch the semi-pro championship of Greater Boston.

Dick Phelan, former Medford high backstop, has joined the City Club aggregation. Webber Knox will hurl against the hard-hitting Somerville nine. Fred Ellis, Eddie Morton and Nuddie Mander are the other brilliant players who are out to put over the unexpected.

HAROLD JANVRIN IN PENNSY COAL LEAGUE

Mt. Carmel, Pa., July 29.—Two former major league stars have been added to the roster of players in the Anthracite Baseball Association. One is Harold Janvrin, who was with the Boston Red Sox, Brooklyn Nationals and other clubs as an infielder. He has signed with Mt. Carmel and has been assigned to left field. Janvrin is a friend of George Whitted, manager of Mt. Carmel, who up to a year ago was with Toledo of the American Association and prior to that time with the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh National league teams. John Hummel, formerly with Brooklyn, has been obtained as an outfielder by Shamokin of the Anthracite Association.

SHOW TENNIS MOVIES AT TEDESCO NIGHT

A dinner and dance will be held at the Tedesco Country Club, Swampscott, tomorrow night in connection with the club's fifth annual open tennis tournament, known as the North Shore championship. The occasion has been named "Tennis Night."

During the evening, slow motion pictures owned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association showing matches in some of the Davis Cup and international tournaments last Summer, will be shown, as well as moving pictures of the 1923 Tedesco North Shore championship.

Krebs to Box Wallace

Freddie Krebs, the amateur middleweight champion, who holds a two-round knock-out over Paul Rebanack, will make his initial appearance in the professional ring against Young Wallace.

Here's Something for Our Ball Rivals to Shoot At

By FORD C. FRICK

IT HAS been a long, long time since Boston has celebrated a pennant winning. And it may be several more years before the local representatives are able to stay "up there" when the season's roll of greatness is called.

But—consider the record of Boston pitchers and doff your hats to real accomplishment?

Delving through the baseball records a few days ago, this writer made an interesting discovery.

Since the American League was organized Boston Red Sox pitchers have turned in a total of ten no-hit games—a record exceeding that of any club in either league.

Cy Young with two games, one of them a no-hit, no-run, no-man-reach-first-base affair.

Hub Leonard, also with two games.

Jesse Tannehill, Bill Dinneen (now an umpire), Smoky Joe Wood, George Foster, Ernie Shore and Howard Ehmke, each with one.

A remarkable record that—harking back to the days of Boston baseball greatness.

Perhaps there's something in the Boston atmosphere, perhaps it's the Boston environment—anyhow, the record stands, and probably will continue to stand for many a long baseball year.

Out of the Past.

"BASEBALL," remarks the old-timer mournfully, "ain't what it used to be.

The old-timer is right. Baseball isn't what it used to be.

Gone are the color and excitement of the old rough and ready days of baseball infancy. Gone are the rough crowds and the rough tactics of other times. And gone, too, are the freak games that went into the records as regular contests.

Gone, but not forgotten.

Here, for example, is the weirdest game in the memory of Sam Crane, veteran writer, and for years a big league performer in the days of baseball infancy.

Forty-two years ago, on July 14, 1882, the Detroit and Chicago clubs of the National League played a game the like of which no modern fan can recall.

Chicago scored twenty-three runs, but only three of them were earned. Detroit made fifteen errors, twelve of them by the infield.

They played shortstop, made five. Farrell, the second baseman, made four. One was made at first base and two at third.

There were four wild pitches and three passed balls.

And Chicago won, 23 to 4—earning three runs and having an even twenty presented by the erring Detroit club.

RICE AND NILES ADVANCE AT SEABRIGHT

Two of Boston's three entries in the annual Seabright, N. J., invitation tennis tournament, Larry Rice and Nat Niles, came through the opening day's play, advancing to the third round.

Only George P. Gardner, Jr., of the Hub trio failed to make the grade, losing to Gerald R. Emerson of East Orange, N. J., in straight sets.

Rice scored decisively over Carl Fischer of Cynwyd, Pa., former national intercollegiate champion, after dropping the first set. The score was 4—6, 6—1, 6—1.

Niles overcame F. Gerdes of the Mexican Cup team handily, 6—1 6—1.

Of the Boston women entered Miss Anna Fuller, Miss Margaret Blake and Miss Rosamund Newton survived.

Only sixteen of the forty-seven entries in the men's singles survived the opening day's play, with Howard Kinsey, Brian Norton, Walter Woodbrook, Percy Kynaston, Harvey Snodgrass and Lucien Williams among those in the upper half, and "Little Bill" Johnston, Robert Kinsey, Alex Thayer, Griffin, Niles, Dean Mathey and Jerome Lang in the lower.

Thayer sprang a surprise by defeating Hugh Kelleher of New York, 4—6, 6—4, 6—0. Lucien Williams of Chicago, former intercollegiate champion, defeated Elliott H. Binzen of New York, 7—5, 6—3, and Fritz Mercur, the Longwood bowl winner, 6—4, 6—4.

Although considerably overweight, Miss Browne took her first match in love sets. Miss Mayme MacDonald, national clay champion, scored two victories with the loss of only one game.

VETERAN BALL NINES PLAY AT CONCORD

Following several old-timers' games in which a number of the younger blood crept into the line-up, owing to the inability to make up a nine of the older players, Concord is now ready to witness a real game among the "antiques" of Concord and Concord Junction, to be played tomorrow evening, on the Concord Center Playground diamond, at 6:15 o'clock.

That no players under thirty-two years of age will participate in this fray either on the Concord Center or the Junction nines, it has been agreed between the opposing captains, Edward F. Loughlin of the Junction aggregation, and John H. Hosmer of the Center, so that each player must show a copy of his birth certificate to the umpire before he will be allowed to play. As the result, Town Clerk William D. Cross has been a busy man the past few days issuing these copies of birth certificates.

Thus far, the Center nine has won the majority of the games in the series, but it was obliged in several frays to call on Jimmy Burt, tomorrow's encounter promises to be a real honest-to-goodness old-timers' diamond battle.

LINCOLN FILM IS STRONG PORTRAYAL

Life of Great Emancipator Depicted With Fidelity at Tremont Temple

The dramatic life of Abraham Lincoln is presented by Al and Ray Rockett in the film, "Abraham Lincoln," at Tremont Temple this week.

The biography of any man as great a public figure as Lincoln is difficult to produce in such a way as to please "all the people all the time." There is the added danger, too, in Lincoln's particular case, of too much sentimentality. In spite of these difficulties, however, Messrs. Al and Ray Rockett succeed admirably.

Beginning with Lincoln's birth, on a very bleak and unfavorable night, until his assassination, the story moves with pleasant smoothness; the chief point in his life are picked with painstaking care; some of the romantic episodes are dealt with in rather too much detail to spell some, but on the whole, there is no dragging, nor is there any slurring.

A CAPABLE LINCOLN.

George Billings, silent, saturnine, also of movement and speech, yet withal, kindly and considerate, is a very capable Lincoln. His very soberness of action is sometimes expressive of restraint and imperfect coordination, but when we realize what a terrific task he has set before him in the successful emulation of the real Lincoln, any such imperfections are readily passed over.

He dominates the entire action as he rightly should, and this domination somewhat cast into shade the remainder of the cast. Yet pathetic Anne Rutledge and virile Jack Armstrong occupy a very large part of the story. More so, in fact, than his wife, Mary Todd, who changes from the ambitious woman who believes in any means to attain her end, into a singularly devoted and steadfast wife.

ADEQUATE CAST.

Stephen Douglas was rather a disappointment; he appears in the picture as an unscrupulous politician whose overweening conceit leads to his eventual downfall. He could have easily been made into a strong character without lessening Lincoln's triumph one iota; in fact his triumph would have been just that much more significant. As it is, he is a rather poor foil for the tremendous power of Lincoln.

The play is produced with such marked lack of discrimination that it may not offend the most ardent Southerner.

The supporting cast does not compare with Lincoln, but as the story is principally concerned with the "Great Emancipator," it succeeds admirably.

"FOLLIES OF THE DAY" RETURNS TO WALDRON'S

"Follies of the Day," with the famous comedian that never speaks, Leon Snyder, is back at Waldron's Casino for an indefinite run.

Bigger, better and a bit different, the famous burlesque show took Boston by storm last evening before a crowded house.

That Hono is a strong Boston favorite was shown by the welcome he received when he made his appearance. First a ukelele fan then as a piano mover and finally as an aviator without uttering a word, Hono kept the great crowd in continual laughter.

Supporting Hono are Elsa May, Harry Seymore, Marie Tyler, John Williams, Scotty Weston and Avelon Four. The usual number of pretty girls are in the chorus.

MOTHER LOVE FILM SHOWN AT OLYMPIA

"Not One to Spare" Touches Heart Strings of Movie Audience

"Not One to Spare," this week's film attraction at Gordon's Olympia is the acme of perfection in presenting a picture of home life and foster love.

The picturization of life on the farm, the trials and tribulations of a mother of a large family, and the pastimes of children reared on a farm were infinitely true to life. The picture carries you from joy and laughter to the point of tears.

The film opens by portraying the hardships that John ..... undergoes trying to rear a family of seven children of ages varying from four to fourteen years of age.

John's brother Robert, asking the laughter of children in his home, sends a letter to John asking him for one of his children so that the walls of his home may ring with the laughter of a child.

How the mother of the seven children received the letter and pines through hours of tormenting agony wondering how her husband will receive the letter keeps the audience at a tense stage.

The father and mother look over the sleeping children in an effort to decide which one of them shall be sent. The father yields to temptation and decides that the eldest daughter shall be sent to his brother. The breaking of home ties between the daughter and her brothers and sisters and parents moves the audience as few pictures can.

The father finds it impossible to rid his daughter good-bye, returns with the daughter and notifies his brother that he has no children to spare, and the brother, proving that he is a man, shows his generosity and appreciation of parental love by sending a check to his brother that will take him from his small farm to a higher place in the world.

The screen picturization of the game of "Mah-Jong" was both interesting and amusing. Though the picture gave no guarantee of making you a perfect player of this highly mysterious Chinese game, it at least showed the uninitiated the intricacies of this pastime.

The other motion pictures include a "Smith" Pollard comedy, which is fast and exceedingly humorous, the Gordon's Pictorial Review, and motion pictures of C. F. Hover's outing at Pemberton. The vaudeville acts were in good taste.

WILBUR—Fay Bainter in "The Dream Girl." The last week.

ABUNDANCE OF FUN ON BILL AT KEITH'S

Solid entertainment—not too solid—is furnished patrons of Keith's Theatre this week, with the humorous predominating, and those responsible for the laughs are Morey and Mack in the lead. They were heartily received.

Fox Lewis and Lester Lee, Bill Dooley and Viola Yorinks and Charles Crafts and Jack Daley run Morey and Mack a close race for second honors as funsters, however. Bill Dooley, the "music seller," seems headed for a place in the sun.

Beginning with Aesop's Fables and Topics of the Day, the balance of the excellent bill is made up of Bouth and Nyss, cyclists, the familiar Meistersingers, now in their sixteenth year; Harry Roye, Billie Maye and Marie Finley in dances; the Flemings in alabaster poses, and the Pathe News.

Sick Woman Gives Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I have the following list of articles which I will be glad to send to anyone needing them. I would like them to write as soon as possible as I must go to the hospital shortly. I will pay postage.

MRS. P. A.

Thank you for your generous offer. The list was too lengthy to publish. We are sending you the address of Mrs. A. A. D. who has a large family in need of clothing also the address of Mrs. R. S. Her husband is an ex-service man who has been constantly under the doctor's treatment since his discharge. We are sorry you are obliged to go to the hospital.

Writes in Bed

Helping Hand Editor:

I am writing this letter here in bed as I was operated on for appendicitis. This is my third week in bed. Now I wish you all the best of good luck and I would like you to thank No. 44, Mattapan, for the two bundles of clothes I received for myself, My husband is only working two days a week. All next week they are shut down flat. It is pretty hard when I had to borrow two cents from my landlady. I wish I could get some underwear and shoes for the children, 9, 6½, 3 and 2. MRS. ON

...sumption in advance sale. Dutch ... declare against public ownership of railroads or public ownership of any kind. That may disappoint radical farmers, but it ought not to surprise them.

CHARLES DANA GIBSON, entertaining Mr. Davis at Bark Harbor, prides in his clever ... a picture showing Uncle Sam with a magnifying glass, examining two bugs, one is labelled "Democratic," the other "Republican." Uncle Sam says: "I am told there is a difference between those bugs, but I can't see it." There you have the campaign as many see it.

EVERY DAY sometimes sap ... tends to increase the number of wheat and increase the wheat shedding. Now Vishau announces failure of the grain crop. The Ukraine farms famine in place of the bumper crop, enabled Russia to export millions of tons of grain last year. Nature seems to be working for Coolidge, but rather disastrously for others.

The increase of one thousand five hundred million dollars in the value of farm crops within the last two months ought to smooth some wrinkles on the farmer's forehead.

Everything goes up, living, wages, even international repartee. Britain is credited to lend Germany two hundred million to provide just one little payment of many that France will receive year after year, ten, twenty, thirty times that amount and more.

At present prices two hundred million dollars is equal to about four thousand million francs. Five thousand million francs is all Bismarck took from France to settle the 1870 war. He was "cheap."

THE FIRST ISSUE of the first ... edition of Pickwick papers sold for $2,000. Buy a copy for fifty cents and get seven thousand dollars' worth of admirable humor. Let your children read Pickwick and all of Dickens. It is an excellent education in the writing of plain, modern English.

THE REPORT from Rio Janeiro says the Brazilian revolution is crushed.

Another report from Buenos Aires tells of the heroics fighting thus far in the outbreak. Americans will read with deep regret, but without criticism, about the bombarding of the beautiful city of Sao Paulo, next to Rio de Janeiro, the noblest city in Brazil.

In these troubles among friends south of us from the Rio Grande to Terra Del Fuego we should attend strictly to our affairs, look after our citizens, and enforce the Monroe Doctrine of non-interference by Europe. What our neighbors do is not our business, unless they do it to us.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney

Boston Health Commissioner

TEETH of the grown person should be smooth and firm and set regularly in the jaw. The two arches should meet accurately in biting.

In many individuals, however, the conditions at birth are such that, while they are perfect, they are too small to fit the arch or are so large that they never reveal it.

Dr. Mahoney

The worst condition is the most serious because the teeth are so close together and are so crowded out of line that they can't be kept clean enough to prevent decay.

When the first teeth are irregular, great care should be taken to secure regular setting of the permanent teeth.

In certain families the teeth of successive generations seem to be relatively soft, the enamel having but little power to resist infection and the teeth themselves breaking or crumbling under ordinary use.

This generally means a deficiency of certain mineral elements in the system and calls for careful management by physicians as well as dentists, who will help you to overcome the trouble.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

I have a baby a year old. Is it all right for me to give him some beef juice in addition to his other food?

MRS. J. O. M., Boston.

It will be perfectly safe for you to give about two tablespoons of beef juice, diluted with a little boiled water. To obtain the juice, broil the meat, then squeeze it. It should never be given raw.

I have been having a cough and also have lost weight considerably. What do you recommend for me?

MR. P. O. D., Boston.

You should consult your family physician without delay and have a thorough physical examination. The symptoms which you indicate are apparently to be forerunners of a very serious condition if not attended to promptly.

I do not think that my baby seems to be gaining as she should. Will you tell me how much a baby should gain in a week's time? If it is not gaining, what do you think is the reason? M. H., South Boston.

It is well to weigh your baby once a week. The gain in weight will show whether or not it is getting sufficient food. The baby should gain about 7 to ¼ lb. per month for the first year, or between four and five ounces a week.

DRY TOASTS

Here's to the brawniest man in the world—the fellow who tries to give his wife the house money in poker chips.

A pledge to Reparations: Some day we'll get the country back from Congress.

Here's to Progress which will eventually make the cows understand there's a daylight saving law.

To the woman who picks her husband's pockets and to the man who gets even by robbing the ice box.

Here's to the mule driver who put pep in the dictionary.

A toast to the chorus girl. She may sing soprano and she may sing bass. But who cares what she sings.

To the best debtor in the world—the man who borrows trouble and pays it back in worry.

A pledge to feminine thrift: A dollar saved from the house money is a dollar earned for the beauty parlor.

To the old fashioned mother-in-law joke. It takes a modern married man to appreciate it.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Things haven't gone quite as thrillingly with most of us thus far in 1924 as we hoped and expected at new year. Disappointments, reverses, hard knocks have not been uncommon. Millions of those who looked for fatter pocketbooks folks, have had a lean time, so have millions of those who clothe us and shoe us; so have those who dig and bore into the depth of the earth to supply us with metals and oil and coal; so have those who sail our ships for us. Instead of fortune, many have had a taste of defeat.

To all who are struggling to avert defeat this column is addressed.

Lincoln, now ranked as the greatest man America has so produced, suffered defeats almost every stage of his life. At twenty-three he was defeated as a candidate for the Illinois legislature. Before he was thirty he was a candidate for Speaker of the House in Illinois and was defeated. Four years later he was defeated a second time when not run for the same office. At thirty-four he was a candidate for Congress and defeated. At thirty-five he was defeated as a Presidential elector.

At forty he failed to become Commissioner of the General Land office. At forty-three he was again defeated as a candidate for Presidential elector. At forty-four he was for the United States Senate and was defeated. At forty-seven he was a candidate for Congress and for the Vice-Presidency and was defeated. At forty-nine he was defeated a second time as a candidate for the United States Senate. At fifty he had known little but defeat.

Yet, see what success finally crowned his life.

Stephenson spent seventeen of the best years of his life perfecting his locomotive. Old Noah Webster worked thirty-six years to finish his dictionary. Cyrus W. Field crossed the Atlantic half a hundred times before his ocean cable was perfected.

Darnell's first attempt at speech making in the House of Lords Commons was hooted and jeered, but he became Prime Minister.

Grey worked for more than thirty years on his "Elegy in a Country Churchyard."

Will Carleton's famous poem, "Over the Hill to the Poorhouse" was rejected when first sent to Harper's Weekly.

Edison has conducted many, many experiments on a single invention—the-making.

Napoleon told himself: "I will stand at the head of my country, no matter who opposes me. Impossible is a word found only in the dictionary of fools."

Who are the men who today draw salaries of $10,000, $50,000 and $100,000?

Men who have trained themselves to wrestle with and overcome difficulties; men who can transform threatened defeat into victory.

Theodore N. Vail, who toiled year after year against inutterably big odds to bring the telephone into practical being, had the inspiring motto: "The way to meet difficulties is to face them."

So, if everything is not moving along smoothly with you, just take up another notch in your belt, pull your sleeves up a little further, get your chin out, and start in with redoubled cheer and determination, telling yourself that only those who are not battled against the tide have ever known strong swimmers.

Also, recall and always remember this: "The man worth while is the man who can smile when everything goes dead wrong."

Connecticut	216	220	218	207	184	192

(The decrease of twenty-seven deaths in 1922 in Massachusetts as compared with the total in 1921 was due to a campaign of education conducted by Frank A. Goodwin, State registrar of motor vehicles.)

Official Records Show Great Increase in Fatalities During Past Year; New England's Figures Are of Alarming Nature

By BERT FORD.

One person killed for every 1,000 automobiles, was the record in Massachusetts last year. The death toll was 578, with a total registration of 577,883 motor vehicles.

The motor death rate in the country in 1922 was twelve persons as compared with eleven in 1921, ten in 1920 and an average of nine deaths per 100,000 population in 1919, killed for every 100,000 population, 1918 and 1917.

In the twenty-seven States for which data was available in 1917, the actual number of deaths in automobile accidents increased from 6,014 in that year to 9,581 in 1922, the corresponding rates for these two years being eight and twelve.

The Department of Commerce announced that returns compiled by the Census Bureau showed that there were 11,666 deaths in 1922 from accidents caused by automobiles and other motor vehicles, exclusive of motorcycles, within the death registration area of the United States, which embraces eighty-five per cent. of the total population. This area did not include Hawaii.

"SAFETY FIRST AND LAST."

Statistics show that the accident menace increases in proportion to the increase in the number of cars, which means that corresponding increase in caution must be exercised.

Eternal Vigilance.
Personal Responsibility.
Individual Intelligence.

These are the outstanding safety devices.

The chap who coined the slogan "Safety First," didn't go far enough. He should have stretched it to read:

"SAFETY FIRST AND LAST."

Recall how gingerly a novice handles a canoe or explosives and how reserve and caution dwindle as they become more experienced.

It is the same with too large a percentage of drivers of motor vehicles. To them, as a class, the old mariner's observation is directly applicable.

The new motorist almost leans backward in his care to follow instructions and to keep within regulations, in order to protect himself and his car, but this caution vanishes almost without the person realizing it himself.

CAUTION ALWAYS NEEDED.

All too soon the treacherous virus of overspeeding and general recklessness inoculates him and causes him to forget to slow down or to sound his horn at intersecting thoroughfares, to turn corners carefully, to keep to the right of the road and to drive moderately.

He is subtly converted into an out-law and public menace, unless he forms the habit of caution from the very start.

Automobiles are here to stay. It is for the riding and walking public to adjust themselves to the growing economic necessity. Automobiles are no longer luxuries. They are now necessary as telephones and bath tubs.

We must have them, and, in increasing numbers, and the most vital problem before the American public today is to learn how to handle them in a manner to insure minimum casualties.

DEATH LIST IN CITIES.

The following table compiled by the United States Census Bureau shows the number of deaths in sixty-seven cities from 1920 to 1922:

It's a Very Nice Triangle

Let It Stay As It Is

The Eternal Triangle

It shows England and France, looking at each other rather suspiciously, France, determined and sincere; Poor John Bull, rather worried. And in the background is Papa Germany, wondering what France or England or both are planning to do to HIM next.

This triangle shows "Europe at a glance," so to speak.

Down in Southern Europe you have Italy, with Mussolini running things. Having gained at least part of the East Coast of the Adriatic, of which ALL should belong to Italy, he is attending to his own knitting, leaving France, Germany and England to do their own fussing.

Over to the Southwest, Primo Rivera, the Spanish Mussolini, is working at his country's problems, and HE is not bothering about that eternal triangle.

Let us in America do the same.

Let us attend to OUR business.

LET EUROPE'S TRIANGLE STAND AS IT IS, and don't allow your Uncle Sam to be put in the middle, like a poor little scapegoat, to carry the debts and stand the kicks, cuffs and hatreds of the triangular three.

These three European personalities, glaring at and hating each other, would be all smiles and joy if they could get Uncle Sam to cross the ocean with his pocketbook and his other resources and say, "Here I am, ask me, I am RICH."

The whole of Europe and not a few foolish people in America would like to see Uncle Sam break up the triangle by making himself the "goat" for the party, as our American slang has it.

But Americans with enough brains to supply a young humming bird will be glad that the European outfit is a triangle, and that there is no fourth corner occupied by Uncle Sam.

Flying Police Force

The World Does Move

Police flying boats above New York harbor, six of them, will watch ships dumping rubbish, including "bilge," to pollute the beaches and poison the fish. These aerial policemen will also report and punish fliers that go dangerously low, risking the lives of earth walkers.

Soon the air above our big cities will be as thickly populated as are the rivers of China. Very likely there will be "lighter than air health resorts" anchoring one, two or three miles up, according to the doctor's climate prescription. Two miles up you couldn't get a cold or influenza if you tried—no germs up there. The prosperous and idle might even establish a germ-free sky colony, a sort of aerial Thousand Islands.

Illiterate Voters

The National Education Association brings out the fact that over 4,300,000 illiterates will be entitled to vote in November.

That is, there are 4,300,000 voters who can neither write nor read, and hence are incapable of using the printed word to inform themselves about the issues on which they are going to vote.

No wonder there is pending before Congress a bill to establish a Department of Education and Relief in Washington, to be presided over by a Cabinet officer, a Secretary of Education. It is wrong for the richest nation in the world to have such a large percentage of illiteracy.

President Coolidge has come out in favor of the bill establishing this new educational department in Washington.

20 Cents a Mile—

Profitable, Perhaps

New York City's taxicab rates are reduced by cut-throat competition to twenty cents a mile, ten cents the first half mile. That's hard on the individual taxi owner. But the big companies declare that their receipts for the day are bigger than before the cut, because the cabs are CONSTANTLY USED.

The elevated railroads in New York fought against reduction of fare from ten cents to five cents, and then on the five-cent basis made more money than they ever had made.

As Henry Ford has proved, the cheapest thing can be the most profitable thing.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

"A man feels that as long as he is loved he can indulge in any sin except that of infidelity. A woman feels it necessary to add to that one extra trunk of clothes to her natural charms; but a man never has a "coat of tan" to offset to extinguish any glow.

* * *

In those days a girl's beauty, like her pink lingerie, isn't worn long; it can always be renewed.

* * *

The "grand and glorious feeling" is what a man has when he comes home prepared for a showdown and a long, bitter argument with his wife over something and finds that she AGREES with him.

* * *

A woman always runs away in the Summer for a chance of climate; but a man can stay right in town and get the same invigorating and rejuvenating effect from a change of heart-interest.

* * *

In a love-letter a girl always says as much as she dares—more than as little as he dares.

Stern parents and fancy ceiling rooms may be considered a handicap by some girls, but the bachelor who has to stroll the streets and do his lovemaking under difficulties usually comes back for more.

When a Hopi squaw wants a divorce, she has only to throw her husband's clothes out of the house—and that FINISHES things; when a white wife wants a divorce, she has only to give her husband's old clothes to the ashman and that STARTS things.

A fluctuating love is a far harder thing for a woman to endure from any man than a permanent hatred.

In Summer a woman always wears the extra trunk of clothes to her natural charms; but a man never has a "coat of tan" to offset, to extinguish any glow.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Now the tide is landward turning and the rushing breakers roar; now the green waves are returning from some distant, shining shore. They are bearing hints of wonder, gleams of beauty they have seen in their myriad voiced thunder, in their opalescent sheen. They are singing of far places, palm groves set in emerald isles, happy lands the sea embraces where the Summer ever smiles. And their mighty music, calling, wakes an answer deep within; great tides ever rising, falling, you have touched a chord akin! Would that I could glimpse those beaches that the singing waves have seen; far across the ocean's reaches, view those islands low and green! Changing ever, ever drifting up and down a changeful world from the south, with palm groves lifting to the north's snow-flags unfurled. I would join a restless rover ever on the tides of change, roaming all the far flung world over, seeking for the new and strange. Turning to the farthest places, over plain and desert wide I would visit dark-skinned races, and . . . a wave upon life's tide. But down common pathways only have my restless steps been set, and of roads untravelled, lonely I have had no glimpses yet. Strange, the spell still lives and inspires and the white spray dashing in stirs my soul with snowy fingers till I whisper: "We are kin."

No Money for Food

Helping Hand Editor:

Would be grateful if some kind people could help me out as I am having a very hard time. My husband has been out of work for a month. He will be going back next week, but I don't have a penny in the house to buy food until he gets pay. I have two little babies, a girl two years old and a boy six months. I wear size 40 or 42. My house dresses are nothing but rags. Anything for my little ones will be appreciated as I can make things over.

Would Work for Board

Helping Hand Editor:

Can you help me? I am deserted and left with two children. I am with an old lady now, but I have to go in two weeks more because she can't stand the children. They make her nervous. Is there someone around that will let me come and help with the work to pay our board. I am willing to work and my children are good. It will have to be near here as I have no money to go far away. I would like a farm. I am desperate.

MRS. E.

Minot Corner, Me.

May Be Evicted

Helping Hand Editor:

Please help me. I am all alone without a husband and have two children and out of work; not a piece of bread to eat and no money to pay my rent. I just recovered from a serious illness and I don't know where to turn, as I am not well yet. Even if I was healthy I couldn't get a job. My children cry for bread. I don't care for myself but the children. The landlord threatens to throw me out.

MRS. L. C. 6.

Needs Country Air

Helping Hand Editor:

I am married and my husband is a shoe worker, but his work has not been steady for two years. He has been out of work nearly four weeks. He is working outside, but can't make very much. I have two boys, and as I am in very poor health I was wondering if you could find a place where I could go for a month out in the country to try and get back my health. I would wash dishes or do a little light work in exchange for my board. It would have to be near Boston, as I have to go to the hospital once a week for treatment, or perhaps you could get a place for my little boy, who is not very strong, age 10 years. You might know of some place where his board would not be very high. I would like to put him to board until school starts.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE SMOTHERERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE trouble with the egotist is that he smothers you.

More marriages have been wrecked by smotherers than by any other cause.

No one can sustain a continued intimacy unless he allows the other party to that intimacy a certain amount of independence.

The instinct for personal expression is one of the deepest of our humanity. Whoever treads upon that instinct, and denies it, had laid the ground for a deep resentment.

A recent writer tells of a man who was arrested for desertion after twelve years of faithful married life.

"He said that he had been coming home as usual, that he had seen his wife and children through the window, that he had seen them there every night and that he couldn't bear it.

"A fine coerced him back to his setting—but he conveyed a lesson: Crime is often a common impulse, magnified and sustained, and his impulse was self-preservation. He was escaping from a supplementary picture of his own conformity. He said: 'Your Honor, if she only had hit me, I never would have left her.'"

Singularly enough, some of our laws make violence and brutality an excuse for divorce, but not smotheration. It is well known, however, that the carter's or blacksmith's wife very easily puts up with an occasional beating, but it is difficult for the duchess to live with an egotist.

If a husband or a wife makes the partner but a reflex of himself or herself, and of his or her ideas, it may make for conformity but hardly for satisfaction.

It is a difficult thing to see, that perfect unity is impossible without perfect independence. There can be no sincere unity without delicate self-giving. And if there is an effort on the part of one to make the other conform in every way to his wishes and his ideals, the result is smotheration. The eventuation is not harmony, but disharmony.

By and by there is a constant effort to evade what cannot be argued with. Whoever will not tolerate anything but his own ideals and convictions is putting a premium upon deception.

Submission, or self-giving, must be entirely voluntary to be worth while.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON HEREDITY LIMITS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THE tide is still rising for the old doctrine of heredity. Those who ride upon its crest like South Sea Islanders on the towering shore-breakers—such men as Professor Karl Pearson, famous for his use of the ladders of statistics to reach high altitudes of speculation—see nothing in life beyond its hereditaments. They do not believe that any transmissible results are obtained by the efforts of men to improve themselves and so to improve the race.

You were all in the cell from which you sprang. The whole of your life's tendencies and masteries were locked up there, waiting to be developed, or unfolded like a flower, but incapable of receiving any addition. Your children will be copies of yourself except for certain forces of variation, exclusively inherent in the original cell.

No Effect.

The stirring world around you, and your efforts and experiences in it, are assumed to have no effect upon your hereditary cells. Acting together, the cells that make up your body and your brain may be trained by your will as long as your individual soul remains allied to your individual body; but nothing thus impressed during your life is handed down to your descendants, because the reproductive cells are forbidden and unalterable by any influence acting from outside their walls. They are regular little Carcassonnes, defying the Paynim hosts of change that assail them from without.

You may leave your accumulated millions of material wealth to your children, but it is beyond your power to hand down to them any product of spiritual and mental development that you may have acquired, simply because the hereditary cells will have nothing to do with novelty. They will pass along to your offspring just your original riches or your original poverty in the essence of being, but not a whit more nor a whit less.

Now one is not compelled to accept such a doctrine in all its consequences, as one accepts a mathematical demonstration. The bases on which it rests are not so broad and sure as that. Nevertheless, it is probable that it embraces a great deal of truth. As to that, every thoughtful and observant person must judge for himself. Some of the conclusions recently announced by Professor Pearson will be found by many hard to swallow, though, if correct, they have important practical bearings, affecting millions of people.

He is reported as affirming that health and character are but slightly related, and health and good temper practically not at all. In a word, health is not a governing factor of temperament. It is a matter of heredity: and temperament goes along with it. If you want your child to be healthy you must yourself be healthy, and if you are yourself healthy your mother (and father) must have been healthy before you.

So, then, health is an endless chain running down through the family, and only accident, or invasion, can introduce a weak link. This is laying a foundation for eugenics as a practical element in sociology. It is ground on which advocates and opponents may fight to a finish.

Chief Source.

Heredity, according to Professor Pearson, and not life in slums and amidst deprivations, is the chief source of ill health for babies! It is the weakened constitution inherited from the undernourished mother that stamps the mark of early death on the child, and not the fact that she is unable to give it breast milk. But the inability of the mother was itself the result of inheritance—so there we are again in contact with the endless chain of heredity.

By the same authority, neither the psychic character nor the bodily health are essentially changed by the influences of school life! But this is going far beyond the original claim that the effects of personal improvement in mind and body are not transmissable to the offspring. What is it, then, that we really do get in school? Only an unfolding of the latent powers already in us, will be the reply.

Truly "the proper study of mankind is man." And it is a harder study than Greek or mathematics.

Once-Overs

STAND FOR SOMETHING WORTH WHILE.

Why worry over the mean things which are said of you, and which may come to you, when you know you are going straight and doing the right thing?

You cannot go through life without enemies, if you amount to anything.

If you are content to be spineless, a mollycoddle, a will o' the wisp, with no set ideas or principles, you might go on and on without making bitter enemies, but what would you be worth to yourself or anyone else?

Stand for something which is worth while, and stick to it.

There is little to this popularity stuff.

Get some fight into yourself.

Steer straight and let the back-biters continue their sport.

Even a man who is worsted in a fair and square fight has some respect for the man who has beaten him in an honest way.

But none has respect or strong personal regard for the lukewarm individual, who has not enough backbone to stand up for anything.

If you are sure of your ground, and it is right, hold it.
